Authorities continued an intensive search early today for two men in a dark-colored sedan, want-ed for the murder of a Rossmoor housewife who was found shot to death Friday in a Dominguez Hills ravine.

Staff Writer An immediate audit of city billings to the Long Beach Grand Prix Association has been requested by Acting City Manager Robert Creighton in the aftermath of newspaper reports that $114,000 was sliced from bills to keep the racing group financially afloat.

Creighton asked City Auditor Robert Fronke on Friday to audit the reductions "at the earliest possible date" and also take a look at how much of the city's travel business a travel agency owned by association President Christopher R. Pook has received.

The association promotes auto races through the streets of downtown Long Beach.
City records show that the city's billings for its services to the LBGPA were cut from $281,195 to $180,005

after the first Long Beach Grand Prix race last Septem-

Prison trusty kills 5 in family, self

FORT MORGAN, Colo: (AP) - A prisoner free on a work-release program murdered five members of a ranch family, took an elderly woman and two girls hostage, raped one of the girls and then shot himself to death as pursuing officers closed in, police said.

Authorities said Richard Joseph Turner, 23, killed John E. Hardin, 37, of Penrose: Hardin's wife, Toni, 35, and children Laurie, 15; Carol, 13; and Jim, 3, after being released from the Fremont County Jail to load hay on the Hardin ranch Thurs-

À telephone repairman investigating reports that the family's telephone was off the hook found the bodies of Hardin and his wife in their garage Friday morning and noti-fied sheriff's deputies, who found the bodies of the children in the house.

Fremont County Coroner Henry Graybow said Mrs. Hardin and the couple's two daughters had been raped. He said one of the victims was shot in the head, but the bodies of the other four were so badly battered he could not immediately determine the cause of death..

A Morgan County farm woman told police a man in a pickup truck matching the description of Hardin's vehicle tried to cross her property on Friday. The truck was spotted later north of Sterling, which is just northeast of Fort Morgan, where the unidentified elderly woman and two girls were taken hostage.

Authorities gave no de-tails but said Turner raped one of the girls, aged 14, in a barn and then left alone.

Morgan County Deputy Sheriff Leo Barker found the Hardin truck a short while later, overheated and stalled on Balzac Road seven miles north-east of Hillcrest. A farmer, Burlie Segelke, had stopped a few minutes earlier and was attempting to get the truck started by pushing it. Barker said he ordered Segelke to approach him and then heard a gunshot inside the cab of the truck.

City asks rapid Grand Prix audit

He added that the reductions were reviewed at the time by former City Auditor Murray T. Courson, who reported nothing amiss.

But he said he wants Fronke, who replaced Courson, who retired in June, also to go over them, as well as review the city's business with Pook's American Aviation Travel Service.

A March 1976 outline of city policy for airline travel for department heads shows that American Aviation was one of three local agencies "suggested" as reliable. A memo on the travel policy was sent the department chiefs by Director of Finance Warren Heistand.

Besides Pook's agency, Heistand also suggested On the Go Travel at Buffum's and Atlas Travel Agency, but he said the department heads could select other agencies if they wanted to.

The review by Fronke should show which agencies were used and how often.

A Los Angeles newspaper, in an article Friday, alleged that Pook's agency got some $60,000 in city business because of his friendship with George Medak, executive assistant to the acting city manager, and William Talley, former director of administrative management who is now city manager in Anaheim.

Senate told of 'blackmail' by cadet lawyers

(AP) — Army lawyers holding affidavits which they say implicate hundreds of cadets in the U.S. Military Academy's worst cheating scandal were accused of virtual blackmail Friday by the chairman of a Senate subcommittee. Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., who heads the manpower and personnel subcommittee, made the accusation in a Senate speech a few hours after the Academy's superintendent appealed to accused cadets here to turn over the affidavits.

"At any time anyone shares them with us, we would welcome them," Lt. Gen. Sidney B. Berry told reporters. He said the Army would "search out" additional honor code violators "with whatever evidence is provided."

A defense lawyer said later that the accused cadets were, in fact, preparing to turn over the documents in which cadets already charged purport-edly detail other honor code violations and name participants.

"It is important to realize ... that it is the defense counsel themselves who bear the principal responsibility for the failure to conduct a thorough inquiry into the extent of cheating at West Point." Nunn told the Senate. He continued:

"Yet in a flagrant attempt to intimidate some may say blackmail — the Army into reinstating their clients, they have refused to turn these affidavits over to the Army for investigation.

"Thus, on the one hand defense counsel berate the Army for not pursuing a thorough investigation of cheating at West Point, while on the other they refuse to make available information without which such an investigation is impossible."

Meantime, Sen. Dewey

F. Bartlett, R-Okla., urged a staff investigation by the Senate Armed Services Committee, saying, "Extensive cheating is symptomatic of a deeper illness in the honor system itself."

A spokesman for Nunn said that the recommendation was being considered to assess attitudes about the honor code and that any changes in the code should be left to the cadets.

In a sidewalk interview after his news conference, Berry said withholding the affidavits is irresponsible. The accused cadets and their Army defense law-yers have been using the affidavits as a tactical device in efforts to win more lenient treatment, he said. Army Secretary Martin R. Hoffman announced on Monday any cadets caught in the scandal could leave the Academy without hav-ing to serve the usual two years as enlisted person-

The number of cadets — all members of the class of 1977 — convicted of violating the code by collaborating on graded electrical engineering homework, reached 93 on Friday, three more than the cribbing resignations in what ball scandal.

To date, the number of cadets who have been implicated, some of them cleared, is 202, almost onefourth of the class. With the remaining cases dismissed, 47 cadets have charges pending before officer boards.

DETECTIVES Gary Bennett and Marjorie Munro struggle with suspect in Pasadena bank Friday. They had expected an easy arrest, "but we had to roll around a bit," said Bennett. No one in the bank offered to help.

${\bf `Entertaining'}$ bank arrest

PASADENA (AP) -- Pasadena detective Gary Bennett thought it would be a simple arrest Friday when a bank manager notified him that a wanted man had just walked in the door.

"But he didn't want to go to jail, so we had to roll around a bit," Bennett said, summing up a 15-minute struggle that provided entertainment for - but prompted no offers of help from — the people in the bank. "There were 30 or 35 people standing around. The bank guard didn't show up until it was almost over," he

The incident began when Bennett was notified that Bob Clausell, wanted for investigation of burglary and receiving stolen goods, had walked into the United California Bank. Bennett said he and woman detective Marjorie Munro attempted to serve Clausell with a federal warrant. But a struggle broke out and bank personnel and customers looked on until police units arrived to bring the man under control.

Clausell, 26, described as a transient, was booked for the charges described in the federal warrant and for battery on a police officer.

Bennett said he was too busy struggling with Clausell to ask bystanders for help. But the event had an air of unreality, he said.

Prince remains out of sight

Bernhard and Queen Juliana stayed out the public eye at Soestdisk Palace in The Hague on Friday while the Dutch parliament prepared for a debate Monday on the Lockbeed payoff scandal which forced Bernhard to resign all public posts.

A government spokesman said Queen Juliana and the prince would stay at the palace for the next few days. He said that as far as he knew the couple had no other plans.

Bernhard's resignation as inspector general of the armed forces and from other public and private positions was announced by Premier Joop Den Uyl.

A special commission found the 65-year-old prince had been extremely imprudent and unwise in his dealings with the aircraft giant. The panel said it found no evidence Bernhard had received a reported $1.1 million from Lockbeed, but added that it could not rule out the possibility that the money reached him without being recorded in the royal household's books. Sources said they expected the 150-seat Dutch parliament to approve the government's handling of the case, which included no criminal prosecution of the prince, but that there would probably be de-mands for greater supervision by the government of future royal

The 240-page report of the official inquiry went on sale to the public Friday at $5.60 per copy. The state publishing house said the first two printings of 5.000 and 10.000 copies were sold out within hours and a third printing would copies.

Den Uyl said he planned to withhold further public comment on the affair pending Monday's debate in parliament. Some legislators are expected to express concern over Dutch aircraft procurement policy, even though the inquiry reported there was no evidence that any improper influence had been applied.

The habits of the freewheeling, German-born prince, whose foreign trips were often undertaken without reference to the government, will also be under discussion, informants said. They expected pressure to be exerted for more official control over the travel plans and activities of members of the royal bouse

Recall

My sister told me that she had heard on the news recently that certain brands of pacifiers have been recalled because a baby choked to death on one of them. I haven't read anything about this and my sister can't remember the brand names involved. Can Action Line give me a list of the recalled pacifiers? Mrs. B.S., Lakewood.

The pacifiers involved in the recall were manufactured by La Cibeles Inc. and were marketed in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, Florida and Puerto Rico. The recall was ordered in February by the Consumer Product Safety Commission after a 5-monthold New York infant choked to death when he swallowed a part of the pacifier. The commission reissued its warning about the pacifiers earlier this month to alert parents whose infants may still be using one of the four types of La Cibeles pacifiers. The four models are called Fauna, Flower, Texas and Navy, and the handles on these pacifiers are in the shape of an animal's head, a flower, a baby wearing a cowboy hat or a baby wearing a sailor's hat. The pacifiers were made in Spain. Com-mission officials don't believe the pacifiers were resold to any California retailers, but they have issued the warning in every state just in case they're in use in other areas besides the East Coast.

Bubble Yum

I would like to find out why Bubble Yum, which is made by the Life Saver company, is off the market. I can't buy it anywhere in the Long Beach area. Their commercial says there is no more because they ran out. But I've heard rumors that they took it off the market because it caused some cases of mouth cancer. Who is right? D.V., Lakewood.

Bubble Yum, described by a Life Savers Inc. official as a soft, fruit-flavored bubble gum, has not been taken off the market. "The demand is simply exceeding our supply at the moment," the official said, "and we have about 1,000 letters similar to your reader's." He said the gum never has been related to cancer. After limited distribution on the test market for two years, the company announced it would distribute the product nationally last December, around the time when the U.S. Food and Drug Administration banned the use of red dye number 2. Although none of that dye was being used by the company, the gum is red and consumers jumped to their own conclusions. "The gum is safe and will be available everywhere very soon," he said. "We make superior claims for our bubbles, too," though he acknowledged the company would be hard put to docu-

I'm trying to find a plumbing school. Can Action Line tell me where I can learn plumbing? K.I., Long

The Plumbers and Steamfitters Union Local 494, 1246 Locust Ave., has its own plumbing school, but it is not easy to become a student. Applications are taken once a year, and there usually are about 200 applicants for 10 to 12 openings. Applicants must be high school graduates and are given a written test and an interview. Those who are accepted attend school three nights a week, nine months each year for five years. At the end of the five years they can take the state exam to qualify them as journeymen plumbers. Most students, while in school, work during the day as apprentices for union plumbers. There also is a nonunion school given by the Plumbing, Heating, Cooling Contractors of the Greater Los Angeles Area, 2212 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles. Theirs is a four-year, one-night-a-week course. However, before you can apply to the school, you must be hired as an apprentice by a plumber who is a PHCC member.

Los Angeles had one of the lowest crime rate increases of any major city in the country between 1970 and 1975, Police Chief Ed Davis said Friday.

Davis said crime increased 1.6 per cent in that period in the seven major crime categories. The categories are criminal homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, theft and car theft.

Davis, who said the figures were compiled by the Baltimore Police Department, credited community involvement programs, such as the Neighborhood Watch and Team Policing, for the low increase.

Davis said only three major cities had a better crime rate record than Los Angeles. They were Baltimore with a 9.5 per cent crime rate decrease, People's Lobby Friday called on homeowners to urge Los Angeles County supervisors to make about $280 million in budget cuts, including freezing county executives' salaries at last year's levels.

The action by People's Lobby, a public interest group, came in the wake of Gov. Brown's signature of a bill permitting the county to reopen its current budget.

The budget has sparked intense homeowner protest because at first it called for a property tax increase of 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Since then, supervisors have cut the tax rate back to near year's levels, but most homeowners are still paying substantially higher taxes due to soaring property assessments.

People's Lobby listed money-saving proposals spokesmen claimed would decrease the property tax rate by about $1.10 per $100 of assessed

They suggest, among other things, that:

-County supervisors contribute their salary increase to the county and freeze county executive salaries at last year's level for a savings of about $13 million;

-Declare a one-year moratorium on taxpayer. contributions to the employe Retirement Fund to save $162 million; 48-Cut the capital projects appropriation for a savings of about $45 million; 🚈

-End subsidies to county golf courses for a savings of $5 million.

Joyce Koupal, director of People's Lobby, said the recommended budget cuts are "based on common sense and a preliminary review of county government spending which highlights the most blatant areas of budget excess.

She said the People's Lobby recommendations will be presented to the county Board of Supervisors at public budget hearings which she said are expected to reopen Mon-

Meanwhile, spokesman for a group calling itself TUFF (Taxpayers United For Freedom), called on homeowners to join forces to fight tax increases which he said will force them to sell their homes.

"We must donate our time and dollars into a war chest for this fight," said Jim LeFeber, legal coordinator. "We will work to insure that people not lose their homes, and that all citizens of Los Angeles County are taxed fairly and our tax dollars are spent efficiently."

School bus bill to Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) -A bill designed to avoid a repetition of the school bus accident that killed 28 Yuba City high school pupils and their chaperone is on Gov. Brown's desk.

The measure mandates that after Jan. I all drivers taking children to and from school have a California school bus certificate, and that all such buses must be inspected by the California Highway Patrol.

Barnes said Thursday's proposals from the mechanics negotiators required a lot of time for computation before their cost could be estimated. The latest RTD offer to drivers was a 19.4 per cent increase, while the union asked for a three-year raise of 22.92 per cent.

RTD spokesmen have said the district can't give in to unrealistic demands in light of the "tax revolt" under way in Los Angeles County, while union leaders have insisted they are only trying to keep pace with the cost of living.

The district's board of directors is due to meet at 11 a.m. today at RTD headquarters in Los Angeles to consider the latest offers from the mechanics. The board last met on Wednesday. Meanwhile, about 150 strikers and their families appeared at the county Hall of Administration to complain they didn't receive their paychecks Friday for time already worked.

Earlier, they demonstrated at RTD headquarters, where non-striking employes received their checks.

The demonstraters said they didn't believe the district's explanation that the because skilled payroll clerks refused to cross picket lines.

Brown commented at an impromptu news conference as he prepared to sign an urgency bill fresh from Senate passage that allows Los Angeles County to reopen its current budget and make cuts. The Senate approved the bill 27-4.

The measure gives Los Angeles County until Sept. 15, instead of the normal Aug. 31 deadline, to set a property tax rate. It allows supervisors to cut from the budget as long as notice of public hearing is given 24 hours in advance.

For proposed cuts in health services, a 60-day advance notice is required. Existing labor contracts with county employes cannot be altered.

tificial gene put in living cell

CAMBRIDGE Mass. (AP) — Scientists say they have artificially created a gene, the basic unit of he redity, and planted it in a living cell, where it work-ed-like its real-life model.

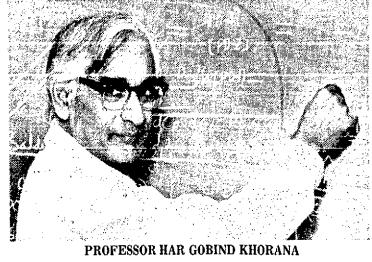

The discovery at Massa chusetts Institute of Technology was described by biologists as a major breakthrough in the study of genetics.

It culminates nine years of research by Nobel Laureate Har Gobind Khorana. Two of his assistants planned to outline their findings Monday at a meeting of the American Chemical Society in San Pfancisco.

For the first time, scien-tists have linked together tiny bits of chemicals into an exact copy of the gene of a bacteria, then transplanted their creation and watched it help regulate The bacteria's living progesses.

The scientists say they next begin shifting about the internal chemistis of the gene to find out why it functions only at the precise moment it is needed in the development

"We would like to find out how a gene turns itself on and off," said Dr.

Hans-Joachim Fritz, one of the scientists on the project. "No other approach offers an equally exact method of changing the gene's structure and looking at the change in its function.'

The new achievement is a significant step toward better understanding of fundamental life processes, and perhaps, in time, the ability to manipulate genes for human benefit. Genetic diseases might, for example, be treated by substituting healthy, man-made genes for defective ones.

Khorana, who won the Nobel Prize in 1968 for his genetic research, created the first artificial gene the duplicate of one found in yeast cells - in 1970. But this gene was incomplete and could not be transplanted. So he and his colleagues began an effort to copy a gene of the bacteria E. announced that the gene was nearly complete. The next step was to insert it into a living bacteria and watch what happened.

About a week ago, they finally had their results. "The Petri dish had the spots on it we expected." Fritz said. "It was pretty exciting.

Geneticist Maxine Singer of the National Cancer very significant breakthrough when they synthesized the gene.

At Harvard, Dr. Fotis Kaiatos is working on a project that uses an organic method of duplicating

"Their breakthrough was developing this gene," be said. "Now they have demonstrated that it can work. This is very important. But I am not sur-prised that it worked."

A gene is the fundamental unit of heredity. It is a minute bit of information that directs the development of all that is alive. Everything from the color of a tomato's skin to the shape of a man's nose is determined by genes.

Each gene contains the instructions for making a single kind of protein. Genes are linked together in long strands of acid called DNA, and each is made up of four separate, complex chemicals called nucleotides.

These nucleotides are available to scientists from commercial chemi-

North Korea had suggested the partition plan, to separate United Nations and Communist security guards, after a United States demand for assurances that there would be no further attacks like that in which two Army officers were killed last week.

At the same time, reliable Unifed States and Korean sources said Friday that at least some of the North Kerean guards responsible for the killings at Panmun-

U.S. N. Korea U.S. to sell Iran 160 F16 fighters

WASHINGTON-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee Friday that the United States had agreed to sell Iran 160 new generation F16 fighter planes at a cost of about $3.4 billion.

Kissinger said the administration had decided to go ahead with the sale despite a staff study by the Foreign Relations Committee earlier this month that said Iran was unable to absorb the sophisticated equipment it cent years.

But he stressed that delivery of the new General Dynamics fighters would not begin until 1979, when 10 trainers will be shipped to Iran. He said the remaining 150 planes would be sent over the following four years.

According to participants in the two-hour session, Kissinger said a formal notification would be sent to Congress Monday on the pending F16 deal as well as on an additional $600 million in Iranian orders for Sidewinder, Phoenix and Sparrow $4 billion.

The administration has defended Iran's massive purchases-about $10 billion in the last few years and another $10 billion estimated for the second hald of this decade-because of Iran's concern about having to defend borders with the Soviet Union and Iraq and a fear of possible trouble from the direction of India. The committee's staff report, whose conclusions Shah Reza Pahlevi rejected when Kissinger visited him in Iran earlier this month, said that "selfsufficiency is not attainable" for the Iranian Air Force in the foreseeable future, even if it makes no additional major purchases.

At the time the report was written, Iran's most modern system was the F14, a larger and more complex aircraft than the F16. The F16 is the plane of the future for most of America's European allies, who have ordered it in quantity.

Kissinger appeared before the subcommittee Friday to continue a discussion started Thursday on contemplated sales to Saudi Arabia. Most of Friday's discussion dealt with the Saudi issue, par-ticipants said, with only a few questions raised about sales to Iran.

Kissinger told the sentors the administration planned to sell $573 million in equipment to Saudi Arabia, including some 1,000 sidewinder missiles.

-The international economic emergency proclaimed by Nixon Aug. 15, 1971, to implement currency restrictions and control foreign trade.

The bill provides that in the future presidential proclamations of a national emergency will end automatically in one year, unless renewed, and can be terminated at any time either by the president or by majority votes of both houses of Congress by adopting a concurrent resolution not subject to presidential veto.

The bill is a product of a two-year study by a special Senate committee headed by Sens. Charles Mathias, R-Md., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, which identified 470 provisions of federal law giving the president extraordinary authority in time of war or national emergen-

> Th bill provides for mandatory review of the necessity for their continuation not less than every six months.

The Senate initially passed the bill Oct. 7, 1974, but no House action was taken before the expiration of the 93rd Congress.

The House initiated the bill in the 94th Congress, passing it last Sept. 4 by a 388-5 vote. Senate action Friday was by voice vote and without debate.

Senate restricts President's power to embargo exports

WASHINGTON (AP) -The Senate voted Friday to limit the President's authority to embargo exports of farm products.

Also included in a bill to extend and revise export controls are provisions designed to aid U.S. businessmen in resisting the Arab boycott against Israel. The bill now goes to the House.

Other parts of the bill, passed 65-13, would force disclosure of the ownership by foreigners and others in U.S. corporations.

Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., won voice vote apof an amendment providing that Congress would have 30 days in which to veto a presidential decision to ban exports of any agricultural commodity.

"FARMERS must be assured that world mar-kets are available to them," he told the Senate.

However, he said his amendment was not intended to apply when a president acted in the interest of national security or to prevent consumfrom suffering from inflationary price in-starting next June 30, a taxpayer could subtract from taxes owed $100 to offset part of the costs of college or vocational tuition, books and supplies. The $100 would be available for each such student Jin a family.

The credit would rise to $150 in 1978, $200 in 1979 and $250 in 1980 and later years.

It would cost the government $1.1 billion a year -starting in 1980.

The tuition credit was the second major Senate geature of the tax bill that the conferees agreed to strip off and consider as separate legislation.

Lockheed pay scandal perils world leaders

The multimillion-dollar Lockheed payoff scandal has stained major public figures in the Netherlands and Japan and threatens top politicians in Italy and West Germany.

Shortly after Lockheed Aircraft Corp. officials told a U.S. Senate subcommittee in March that the company had paid $24.4 million in several countries to push sales of its airplanes, the search for the recipients of those payments began.

Holland's probe reached a climax Thursday with Prince Bernhard's retirement from public and business life. But in at least three other countries investigators are still sifting through testimony and documents that could determine the fate of leading public figures.

former Japanese prime minister has been arrested and faces criminal trial, prominent Italian politicians remain under a cloud of scandal and West Germany is sending an envoy to the United States to inspect Justice Department and Lockheed records for possible irregularities in German plane purchases.

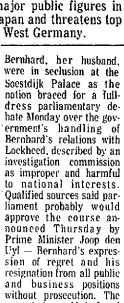

Among developments: -West German government spokesman Klaus Boelling announced in Bonn on Friday that Undersecretary of Justice Guenther Erkel would leave soon for Washington. Erkel's findings will determine whether a formal inquiry will be made into the purchase of 1,000 Lockheed Starfighter jets in the 1960s for the West German air force and navy, he

The announcement was prompted by reporters' questions in the wake of developments in the Neth-erlands, which also bought Starfighters, the spokesman said. West Germany is in the midst of a national election campaign, but Boelling denied that politics was a factor in the Social Democratic government's decision to send the mission. Franz Josef Strauss, defense minister who authorized the Starfighter purchase, and Strauss' opposition party, the Christian Social Union of Bavaria, have denied published allegations by for-mer Lockheed official Ernest Hauser that the party collected Lockheed

During its probe into Lockheed payments abroad early this year, the U.S. Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations took testimony from Hauser about Lockheed payments to European officials. The Senate subcommitsure to oust him.

The Liberal-Democratic majority this week beat down a combined opposition motion for a parliamentary committee to take testimony in the Lockheed case.

-In Italy, several leaders of the ruling Christian Democratic Party, including one of the three prime ministers in office between 1968 and 1970, have been accused of sharing in $1.6 million in Lockheed money purportedly spent to influence purchase of C130 Hercules transports. All have denied involvement in the affair.

tee testimony that Lockheed officials spent $12.6 million in Japan influencing the purchase by All-Nippon Airways of Lockheed TriStar jetliners shocked the Japanese and has threatened to split the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party, headed by Tana-ka's successor, Prime Minister Takeo Miki. In a letter to be presented to the council on Tuesday, Fronke says a combined jump in assessed property valuations, made recently by County Tax Assessor Phillip Watson, and a city tax rate hike for 1976-77 will mean an average in-crease for Long Beach taxpayers of 15.8 per cent.

In the same letter, Fronke offi-cially set the current tax rate at 9.7-cent rise over last year.

The greater portion of money to balance the budget — aside from the almost $23 million the levy will produce - comes from various special revenues, capital and trust funds and income from the gas, harbor and water departments.

Fronke's assistant, Jay W. Hansen, said that although not all homes in Long Beach have been reassessed in Watson's campaign to bring assessed valuations up, in light of rising market values, owners of those which have been reassessed will find their taxes up more than 15 per cent on the aver-

McJunkin said it was difficult to determine exactly how much money the port takes in from the Mazda operation each year, since the size and number of shipments

The last shipment of Mazdas into the port, he pointed out, was made in April, meaning none of the cars were offloaded here during the last four months.

The Mazda spokesman, meanwhile, estimated that between 12,-000 and 14,000 of the cars and trucks will be imported through Port Hueneme during 1977 if the firm consolidates its Long Beach and Richmond operations.

He did not explain why the projected number of imports was so low, considering the firm's Port Hueneme facility would be handling cargo previously assigned to

Cypress stalls again on tract development

By VINT MADER Staff Writer

For the second time this week, Cypress City Council members deadlocked Friday on a proposal to develop a 545-acre piece of proper-

The council, meeting in special session, was attempting to adopt a plan for presentation to the city's voters concerning development of the Arlan property, located north of Los Alamitos Naval Air Station on both sides of Katella Avenue and east to Knott Avenue.

Following a fruitless three-hour session, the council adjourned and scheduled another meeting on the matter at 9 a.m. today in the council chambers.

The council is faced with adopting a plan — to be placed on the November ballot — for development of the property, which is now zoned only for industrial use.

Under an ordinance passed last year, any council action to rezone land from industrial to residential use must be placed before the city's voters.

Despite lengthy discussion, including a six-hour meeting Tues-day, the council has not been able to reach agreement on just what plan to put or, the ballot.

The Planning Commission has recommended that 164 acres be zoned for residential use and 75 acres for commercial development, with the remainder zoned for industrial use. During the special session

Friday, council members gave lengthy discussion to a plan that would trim residential use to 162 acres and cut commercial use to 56

Adoption of that plan was moved by Councilwonian Sonia T. Sonju, who said development of the property "has become so controversial that I want to see the people vote on it."

The motion failed when only Councilman Otto J. Lacayo voted in favor of it. Mrs. Sonju abstained from voting on her own motion, and Mayor Alice J. MacLain and Councilman Robert C. Harvey opposed.

Councilman Donald G. Hudson, who has sought minimum reduction of industrial and commercial acreage, left the meeting about an hour before the vote. He told the the council that he had been under tremendous pressure because of a death in his family early Friday.

Before he left, however, Hudson said he was opposed to the proposal under discussion and wanted to write the ballot argument against it if it were sent to the voters.

Hudson, before his election to the council, was one of the leaders of a petition drive that spurred adoption of the ordinance requiring a public vote on the rezoning of property from industrial to residen-

Lacayo rose and left the meeting moments after casting his lone vote in favor of the variation discussed Friday.

As Lacayo left the council chamber, Harvey said he thought the departure was "politically convenient, but most inappropriate."

Harvey added that he was about to propose a further motion but didn't think "a situation of this seriousness" should be decided without more of the council

A few minutes later, Mayor MacLain moved an adjournment to 9 a.m. today, with a one-hour time limit for the meeting.

Efforts to amend coast bills begin

Last-minute amendment attempts surfaced Friday as two follow-up coastal bills before the California Legislature awaited final action.

With the main coastal bill on Gov. Brown's desk, opposing factions still prepared to do battle over the two remaining measures - one funding the coastal bill and a second measure making changes in it.

Backers said they doubted that any of the activity would scuttle the coastal legislation agreement worked out by the Democratic governor and labor representatives and placed in the second bill.

And Brown, who says he will wait to sign the coastal bill until the bill making the alterations arrives on his desk, said Friday he thought the issues would

Vegetables that can be seeded now for winter harvest include peas, spinach, carrots, radishes, beets, turnips, and endive. These will germinate quickly since the soil is warm and they will be ready for harvest before you know it.

The nutritious garden

Gardeners throughout the country are engaged in tending home vegetable gardens. Whatever the reason — the economy, the backto-nature trend, or the health exercise aspects, Americans agree that nothing can surpass the reward of home produced vegetables.

Thanks to a favorable climate, Californians, for the most part, have an advantage over Easterners when it comes to winter vegetables. Residents of the Golden State can be harvesting vegetables when, elsewhere, snow covers the ground, or zero temperatures often prevail.

The time for planting the so-called cool season vegetables is at hand, in most areas of the state. Nurseries have seeds of a long list of vegetables that can be planted now — especially in the coming weeks, for winter and spring harvest. Even so, the California Association of Nurserymen advises not to hurry out and plant everything available.

Rather, plant what members of the household will enjoy. Plant a realistic supply in relation to the size of the family. This will help in the decision of how much garden space will be needed for the home vegetable garden.

Elements of success for growing vegetables include soil preparation, adequate feeding, regular watering, and especially, the correct varieties for the season.

Your nurseryman can outline soil prepara-tion procedures; water plants by furrow irrigation and feed at least twice during the growing season. A very important item is to pick the mature crop as soon as it is ready - and enjoy.

Tomatoes: the everything vegetables

There's one vegetable you can grow in a greenhouse or outdoors; in hanging baskets, patio tubs or in your garden. You can select from bite-sized varieties to huge slicing types. And choose your colors - red, pink, yellow, even white.

It's fun and easy to grow. And it's very rewarding because it's a very big producer. In most cases you can harvest fruit all summer long and right up to frost. Green fruit at frost time can be brought into the house to ripen during the next month or so.

It's the number one favorite vegetable in the United States and many other countries.

In case you haven't guessed, we're talking about the tomatoe.

Recorded history dates the tomato back some 350 years, at which time it was considered pretty, but poisonous. It wasn't until about 1850 that tomatoes were generally grown for food in America, even though President Jefferson listed them in his vegetable garden crop Cance then, and especially in recent years, plant breeders have been very busy. The result is enough varieties on the market to baffle the average home gardener. The Ball Seed Company wholesale catalog lists 75 different varieties for home garden and commer-

It all brings up the question, "What should you look for in a tomato for your backyard garden?"

For purposes of discussion, let's think of a regular-sized tomato that can be cut up for salads, sliced for sandwiches, stewed for immediate eating or canning, boiled-down for tomato paste, cooked for juice or just plain eaten like an apple.

One such tomato is a new one this year called Super

Fantastic VF. It's smooth, bright red, very meaty inside and has an excellent flavor. The fruits are large, 10 ounces or more. And you'll be picking tomatoes about a week earlier. Super Fantastic VF reaches maturity in just 70 days after planting out.

From the growing standpoint, Super Fantastic VF offers very good disease tolerance. That's what the VF stands for. What's even more exceptional is that it sets fruit on the first blooms. Most tomatoes don't.

'These advantages are the result of F1 hybrid breeding. This also produces strong vigorous plants that will give you bright red fruit right up to the first frost in the fall—if you live in frost prone area.

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Vines are used for sereening purposes and for narrow soil spaces where it isn't practical to grow shrubs. Some vines provide needed green color, others are used for their attractive b lossoms as well as for screening.

One of the interesting vines used is Clytostoma (klytostoma) whose only one specie name is calystegioides (prounced kal-istee-ji-oydeez).

How how would you like to have such a name?

The first name is from Greek for splendid, and mouth in reference to the showy corolla (petals united as in a bellflower or morning glory). The secand name means resembling a plant Calystegia which is an obsolete name for some morning glory.

persons, Bess Chestnut, Margaret C. Crill, Jean Fogelman, Koloa Roster and Eva Short all graciously answered my garden column inquiry on growing plumeria. These five home gardeners invited me to come and see their lovely plants. I saw plumerias ranging in size from a gallon can with a large head of numerous delightfully fragrant white flowers, on up to easily the tallest of about 15 to 18 feet high.

The consensus was that plants should be kept on the dry side, but watered well when thirsty. Con-stant moisture tends to rot the plants.

The cuttings six inches and longer are started like the poinsettia cuttings . . placed in soil when the white sap has stopped bleeding. This trite remark always irritates the clergy. They are annoyed on two levels.

This first is personal and professional. The blue-domer, they feel, is not getting what their services should be offer-

The second level is more profound. A church is a brotherhood based upon all the past and ex-tending to the end of the world. It is a communion of people dedicated to love

They have a strong case, but there is also a case to be made for bluedomers.

First of all, let's recognize that, as in most controversies, this is not an either/or matter. One can be a devoted church member and a blue-domer. In fact, many clergymen, among them some of the best, are ardent blue-domers. Often after a day or two of blue-doming the pastor's next sermon has a greater vibrancy and depth of meaning.

IS BLUE-DOMING WORSHIP?

Well, there are many kinds of blue-domers.

A golfer can scarcely be described as a worshiper of God or the gods of na-ture. He may invoke all the powers of Heaven and Hell, but his religious interest is in the relationship of his muscles to a most rebellious little white ball. And yet, in a way, golf is religion because it gives him at least a little understanding of certain traits of his personality. It doesn't answer "Who am I?" but it is one attempt to find an answer.

Some blue-domers are passive. A sunbather, halfasleep and thinking of lit-tle, is free for awhile from the stresses of life.

Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: For this is the law and the Prophets. Matthew 7:12.

WITHDRAWAL FOR PROFANE

One doesn't have to be religious or idealistic to understand the worship of withdrawal.

The Navy in war is very "social." A sailor is constantly in the company of other men. There is no escape. But many do withdraw a bit. They lean on a rail and muse on the everchanging, always-thesame beauty of sky and sea. They are, for the moment, no longer ship's company; they are part of the universe. They could-n't possibly say what they feel, but their faces say it. MIRACLE OF

"blue-domer" doesn't really have to go outdoors. Blue-doming is a way of looking alone at the beauty and mystery of the world we live in. Rev. Robert Farrar Capon, priest and ardent amateur chef, talks about an onion in his theological cookbook, "The Supper of the Lamb" (Doubleday.) Now the onion is about as vulgar an herb as you can name. Cooks, good and bad, just chop it up and use it according to recipe. Nobody thinks about onions. But Father Capon did.

He sat alone in his kitchen with an onion and a sharp knife. Gradually he explored the miracle and mystery of an ordinary red onion. He talks of its beautiful architecture, its ultra-dry skin, its allimportant watery interior. He concludes: "Man's real work is to look at the things of the world and to love them for what they are. That is, after all, what God does, and man was not made in God's image for nothing. . . . Onereal thing is closer to God than all the diagrams in the world.' One gets the feeling that the cookbook is very practical. But one doesn't have to go to the kitchen to read it. Every page contains witty and wise ideas about what it means to be human with an appetite for life.

MIRACLE OF YOUR SKIN

One doesn't have to go to the onion to understand the miracle and mystery of life. Just look at your own skin with some intelligence.

Esquire magazine is a worthy publication which usually avoids any mention of religion. Therefore, it was surprising to read in the September issue and article entitled "Skin." The author, Richard Selzer, writes: "Gaze uopon the skin as I have, through a microscope brightly, and tremble at the wisdom of God. For here is a magic tissue to suit all seasons."
He goes on to describe skin and its many functions. Each paragraph increases awe of the miracle of the stuff we take for granted until we get hurt. You will look at your own skin with a reverence you never felt before.

This my son was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found. And they began to be merry. Luke

EDITOR'S NOTE - The

By RALPH HINMAN Jr. Staff Writer

Missing next month when some 25,000 Episcopalians gather in Minneapolis-St. Paul for their 65th General Convention will be the Solemn High Eucharist traditionally offered during the opening session. Presiding Bishop John Maury Allin is said to believe such a consolatory service would be divisive.

Southland church leaders say Bishop Allin is playing no favorites at this convention, a time when the Episcopal church undoubtedly will reach a critical turning point.

In his view an opening Communion using either the 1928 Book of Common Prayer or the final draft of a repeatedly revised and rewritten book would further widen and deepen major doctrinal divisions already painfully apparent within the 2.5 millionmember denomination.

During a Sept. 11-23 convention in the Twin Cities, delegates are expected to give semi-final approval to the proposed revision. If indeed this occurs, the "bluebook" draft will be in general use for the coming three years, being brought back on the floor for almost certain final approval at the 1979 convention.

Acceptance then would mean the final passing of a prayer book used throughout the Englishspeaking world for over 400 years. Although revised many times across the centuries — "From the Wrath of the Northmen, Good Lord Deliver no longer is included within the litany - today it remains essentially unchanged in language and theology from King Henry VIII's day.

crucial fight

Supporters of the old book believe they can't win in '79; they say their only chance — admittedly a slim one — will come during this year's potenially tumultuous convention. For in addition, a long-simmering debate within the church on whether to ordain women into the priesthood is to be debated again, with a final decision to be reached.

There are, needless to say, strong feelings of anger, bewilderment and disillusionment among church members — over both issues. On both sides. This commentary, how-ever, will be limited to pending liturgical

Prayer book updating is an emotionally charged issue. The old book has been an integral part of many lives within this Communion, vitally impinging at confirmations, innumerable Sunday morning services, weddings, christenings of children and grandchildren, the final rites. Many a small shiny pocket edition has become worn and frayed passing through that cycle.

Opposition generally is based in two areas.

To many there is some-thing cold and sterile in 'modern English" which may substituted for, but can never replace, the magnificent phrasings in a book considered one of the classics of English litera-

In the opinion of various distinguished U.S. critics and scholars, the essentially Elizabethan quality of the 1928 edition is superior in beauty and clarity to the language of the proposed liturgy.

Perhaps more significant to the future wellbeing of the church involves inevitable changes resulting from this secularizing of the language. For as a position paper released this week by the strongly anti-revisionist Society for the Preservation of the Book of Common Prayer puts it:

"The doctrinal compromises show themselves on almost every page of the Draft Book. The revisors have been careful to eliminate references to the soul wherever it was possible to do so; they have been equally careful to exclude from the revised prayers references to God's wrath and judgment.

"Satan and Hell barely survive the revision; the evil one is reduced to the abstraction, evil. References to the Second Coming are diminished (as in the revision of the Commital at Burial), and the new translations of the Creeds compromise belief in the Virgin Birth.

Such minimizing of the fearful and miraculous events in Christianity are scarcely tolerable to be-lievers who intend to keep the Faith entire

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)
- The Methodist World Conference opened here Wednesday, bringing to-gether members of 60 Methodist churches in 87 countries — including representatives from North and South America, Cuba and Communist Eastern Europe.

About 70 per cent of the 2,450 persons meeting here are from the United States, spokesman Robin Gurney of London said.

There are fewer than 6,000 Methodists in the Irish republic in the population of three million, which is about 95 per cent Catholic Ireland is important to Methodists because the founder of the church, John Wesley, spent more than six years here on 42 visits, starting in 1747.

dance. Then the doctor went into his spiel. First he charmed the people with compliments, then told of how as a young man he had lived with wild Indians and had discovered a secret elixir known only to the witchdoctors of one clan of the Sioux. This, he said, was the all-purpose medicine to cure every-thing from "consumption" to hangnails. Organized medicine, he said, had tried to buy or steal his secret, but he had kept it to himself for the good of mankind. He held up a tall bottle filled with a black liquid and assured the crowd that for only a dollar a bottle their troubles would be over. THE TM BOOK, How to Enjoy the Rest of Your Life, by Denise Denniston and Peter McWilliams (Price, Stern, Sloan, $3.95.) This book stirred the

Later the town drunk said, "It's just moonshine laced with licorice and some other flavors." But most of the people felt better.
WHAT HAS all this to do with The TM Book and Transcendental Meditation? Perhaps something. TM, which is sweeping the nation, was introduced by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, a bearded teacher from India. The big book is a smoothly written spiel, at once personal in tone, and scientific-sounding. It is filled with impressive graphs and statistics and rather corny drawings.

Most of the book is de-voted to what TM can do. It is a bit like the Sioux elixir that cures all diseases. It can decrease high blood pressure, improve muscles, wipe out mental depression, improve society, degrease crime, etc., etc. You won't find out how to do Transcendental Meditation from this book. It's a come-on. For $125 you can take a course. The Transcendental Meditation office here is at 3772 Katella, Suite 208, Los Alamitos, 90720. The phone number is 596-0726. Many intelligent persons give testimonies. TM certainly knows how to publicize. There is a press kit containing many articles and features from worthy publications.

What turns me off most is the promise, "How to Enjoy the Rest of Your Life." For $125 that is quite a bargain.

newspapers, I often receive long distance telephone calls from different parts of the country. One day recently I received three calls and, interestingly, each called to ask advice about a problem.

The first was a woman in Philadelphia. It was evident at once that she was a highly cultured individual. She used the English language with the easy flawlessness of one born to a long tradition of refinement. But this did not hide the fact that she was much upset. She explained that her son, 20 years old, had fallen in love. And although he was still in his junior year at college and the girl was only a sopho-more, they wanted to be

"Is she a nice girl?" I asked.

"Yes," was the reply. "She is well mannered and a good student."

Is she of good family?" (If I correctly judged, this would be a major consideration to this woman.) After some hesitation, she answered, "Well, formerly it was a good family, but it has deteriorated. "Then," I remarked a bit jovially, "by the girl marrying your son it would be improved again.". This seemed to make an impression. I pointed out how we parents are sometimes tempted to overcontrol our children's lives. We must guide them, but not dominate them — and most important, we must believe in them.

Finally the lady said, "I'm beginning to think a good part of this problem is within me. Perhaps I'm too much of a perfecttionist. I may need help. with my own personality.

"Smart lady." replied, "so do we all." Next on the telephone was a housewife in Kentucky. She was quite a forthright character.

"My husband left me two months ago saying he won't ever come back." The tone of her voice was pretty harsh and mean; and I thought to myself that perhaps you could hardly blame the man. "Why would he go away like that?" she demanded. "How can I get him back? 'Well, of course I don't know why your husband went away. But one thing we can do is to pray for him." To her obvious sur-To her obvious surprise I suggested that we pray together over the Writing columns for telephone, and then 1 asked, "Now, what do you say we pray for you?" She rather meekly assented. I prayed that anything in this woman's personality that might act as a barrier between her and her husband be corrected and to make her so attractive that he would want to come back to her.

After a pause she said uickly, "Maybe you're quickly, "Maybe you're right. I have always had trouble with my disposition.

"You and me both," I said. And on that note we said goodbye. Half an hour later I answered a call from a lady "I have the in Florida. nicest husband in this world," she told me, "but he just can't seem to make friends. We moved here from Tennessee. And we just have to make friends here to make a go of his business. Why is my husband so shy? He has a personality problem."

I promised to send him some things to read that might help him overcome his shyness and improve his personality. Also I expressed the thought that maybe she was pushing him too hard. "You could be right," she agreed. "Guess I'd better relax, but that is easier said than done, you know."

These three conversations set me meditating on the importance of having a well-organized personality, one that is an asset and not a liability. Does your personality get in your way? Does it cause you trouble with other people? Does it limit your success? Let's say this: No matter what your personality defects may be. do not be discouraged you can overcome them. Your personality can be changed. But it cannot be improved by superficial means alone, such as merely correcting mannerisms or other outward defects of behavior. Change must come from inside, where the qualities of personality originate. Try positive thinking. It can change people.

The Holocast

Regarding your article of August 21, 1976. Jews have never said that "they alone were the victims of the Holocaust." They have said that their role as victims was unique: the solitude of the Jews, eaught in the clutches of the Nazi beast, has no precedent in history. It was total. Death guarded all the exits.

It was worse than the Middle Ages, Then, driven from Spain, the Jews were welcomed in Holland. Persecuted in one country. they were invited to another, given time to take heart again. But during the Hitler era the conspiracy against them seemed universal. The English closed off the gates of Palestine, the Swiss accepted only the rich - and later the children — while the poor and the adult, their right to life denied, were driven back into the darkness. It is as though every country — and not only Germany — had decided to see the Jew as a kind of subhuman species, an unnecessary being, not like others: his disappearance did not count, did not weigh on the conscience. He was a being to whom the concept of human brotherhood did not apply a being whose death did not diminish us, a being with whom one did not identify. One could therefore do with him what one would, without violating the laws of the spirit; one could take away his freedom and life without betraying the ideal of man.

In Hungary, in the spring of 1944, Jews listened to short-wave radio from London and Moscow: not a single broadcast warned them about the death transports, not one disclosed the existence nor even the name of Auschwitz. Jewish victims of the Holocaust suffered more. and more profoundly. from the indifference of the onlookers than from the brutality of the executioner. The eruelty of the enemy would have been incapable of breaking the prisoner; it was the silence of those he believed

All the underground networks in the occupied countries received arms. money, and radio equipment from London, and secret agents came regularly to teach them the art of sabotage: they felt themselves organically linked to the outside world. In France or Norway a member of the resistance who was caught could comfort himself with the thought that somewhere in that town as well as on the other shore, there were people who teared for his life, who lived in anxiety because of him, who would move heaven and earth to save him: his acts registered somewhere, left traces, marks of sorrow, produced results. But the Jews were alone: only they were alone.

They alone did not receive help or encouragement; neither arms nor messages were sent them; they were not spoken to. no one was concerned with them; they did not exist. They cried for help, but the appeals they issued by radio or by mail fell on deaf ears. Indifference carried to such an extreme becomes sickness. it resembles madness. Otherwise how to explain the Roosevelts, Churchills, the Stalins. who never expressed their indignation. How to explain the silence of the Pope? Self-respect

I have gone to church all my life. And, because I've moved around a lot, I've attended all kinds of churches from the formal Espicopal to the Salvation Army. Now I attend the church of God headquartered in Anderson, Ind. It has been my experience that it doesn't matter how religious you are or what church you attend. What believe about and what does matter is what you you do about Jesus Christ. To be 'born again" born spiritually, I had to believe that Jesus Christ is the only begotten Son of God and that He died on the cross for me personally. In other words, I had to believe John 3.16. I didn't have to understand it all I had to do was believe it in faith.

I had faith for other things. We are all born with faith. Without faith we could not live sanely. For example, I have faith that when I flip a switch in my house a light will come on. I have faith that when the signal says "Walk" it is safe to cross the street. I have faith that when I cast my ballot in November my vote will be counted. So I had faith that if I confessed my sin and acknowledged Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior, God would forgive my sin and I would become a child of

But before I could confess my sin I had to know had sinned. The Bible tells me that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." So since I had enough faith to believe in Jesus, I certainly had enough faith to believe that what the Bible says is true. So I Humbly confessed to God in prayer whatever sin I was conscious of and whatever sin I was not even aware of. He forgave me and accepted me. How do I know He did? I know it because the Bible says He did. The Holy Spirit directed me into a study of the Bible, and the more I study the Bible, the more I know, beyond any shadow of doubt, that I am saved.

What does it mean to be saved? It means that my spirit will never die, I shall have everlasting life. But I don't have to wait for my body to die to enjoy some of the blessings of salvation. I am enjoying them now. They are peace and joy in my soul, a love for other people that is a tremendous help to me in my human relationships. It is a faith that I can do anything I want to do within God's will because "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." It's selfrespect that comes from the knowledge that I am a child of God -- I no longer feel inferior to others. Opportunities and material blessings have come my way since I have become a child of God. The blessings of salvation are as God himself. All I can say to anyone who scoffs at the "born again" Christian is, you haven't tried it, don't knock it; but for you soul's sake, TRY IT!

New life

When the Religion Editor asked for letters of testimony regarding the born again" experience I had in mind a long letter I would write of my own rehorn experience But instead I will say to anyone earnestly searching for the rebirth of life read John 3: 1-7.

Now some people think doing good works is enough for salvation. I believe good works will not make you a reborn Christian. When you are reborn by the grace of God it changes you completely. Then you want to do good works because of the gratitude and love you feel for God. With someone as holy as Jesus living in vour heart (after you invite Him there) you can't be anything but "reborn". Praise God there's no other life worth living except this new life.

Learned as a child, but now I knew the wonderful feeling of joy and love the true meaning of being a Christian can bring. I was re-born, and a new awareness of the Lord my God has completely changed my outlook on life, I praise him every day, what a feeling of thankfulness is mine. The wondrous part is that being born, spiritually born, in Jesus Christ, is as simple as giving love to a baby. Release of burden and acceptance of his love and joy are all our God in Jesus asks. Holy Spirit

"Born Again", what beautiful words to express what takes place in the heart and life of one who turns from a life of sin and accepts Jesus Christ as his savior. In John 3:5 Jesus said,

"Except a man be born of water and of the spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God." In Acts 16:31, Paul told the jailor, "Be-lieve on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be sa ved.' Being born again is turning your life over to Christ and letting him guide you in all things, knowing the slate has been washed clean and you are starting afresh.

In Acts 2:38 we read," Re baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall re-ceive the gift of the Holy Ghost. And it is this Holy Spirit within you that makes the difference. All things are become new, you can love where you nated before, you can persevere where you gave

But she nonetheless seemed to hold back her fullest vocal powers, understandably saving them for occasions when musical values might count for more.

The Israel Philharmonic opened the program with a brisk performance of the overture to Verdi's "La Forza del Destino." But the local orchestra had the biggest numbers — not only the Mad Scene but also the Prelude to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" and Miss Sills' two en-cores ("Maria's Lied" from Korngold's "Die Tote Stadt" and the song "Estrellita" by Manuel Ponce).

The performance of the Rerlioz by 220-odd players proved repeatedly unbalanced, sorry in intonation and grievously overblown. Though Mehta provided vigorous leadership and the woodwinds some gorgeous solos, the endeavor seemed quite ill-advised. A switching of the black and white formation after the second movement simply confirmed the spuriousness of the international orchestral match-up.

Attendance was 17,599.

New SoCal plant would boost supply with propane

By RALPH HINMAN Jr. Staff Writer

'A Southern California Gas Co. (SoCal) application to build a $5 million facility in Wilmington to stretch diminishing supplies of natural gas by mixing it with propane bought from a Long Beach-based firm was filed this week with the state Public Utilities Commis-

The proposed plant - on the west side of Lakme Avenue between F and G streets produce the equivalent of 52 million cubic feet of gas daily, enough to supply between 160,000 customers in the Basin area when it becomes functional in 1978.

Foreign-produced propane will be supplied by Petrolane via a stillto-be-contructed 8-inch pipeline from that Long Beach firm's San Pedro marine terminal some three miles southwest of the new SoCal plant. The plant is to be located on a two-acre tract.

A letter of intent recently call-ing on Petrolane to supply about 13,500 barrels daily of propane for the next five years recently was Provided by this propane-air fa-cility will be an interim, five-year fuel supply to help provide continued service until larger, long-term supplies are developed during the early 1980s, officials said.

"This is just one modest new supply of fuel," explained SoCal spokesman E.L. "Gene" O'Rourke

during an interview Thursday. "It's part of an aggressive conservation campaign" to preserve dwindline U.S. natural resources.

'Unless we get new supplies we could be forced to curtail service," he added.

If prompt regulatory approvals are obtained, the facility could be functional by 1978, it was said. Although a coastal permit is not needed since the two-acre plant is outside the present zone, approvals are needed from the Federal Energy Administration, Environmental Protection Agency and Southern California Air Pollution Control that would disturb environmentalists. Safety issues have been heavily studied and there is nothing different in this" than in any natural gas plant.

Replying to a question, the So-Cal executive assistant said "there is nothing in the proposed facility

O'Rourke, noting that such propane injection "adds only about two per cent to existing supplies" of natural gas, indicated the plan-ned operation "is not intended to be an alternate to any other proposed gas supply project."

The injection process has been in winter use use here for many years, O'Rourke said. As gas supplies were heavily tapped for home and other heating purposes, propane would be injected to stretch

Most SoCal gas supplies are piped in from West Texas and New Mexico and stored in six immense underground reservoirs. "We inject (fill) them in summer, withdraw it in winter," noted O'Rourke.

For about 25 years SoCal has utilized depleted oil and gas domes under the Southland as storage centers for imported fuel. Oil-bearing strata that held crude oil before it was drained are refilled via the pipeline.

These natural reservoirs are located in Playa del Rey, East Whittier, Montebello, near Castaic and Alisio Canyon and at Goleta. Filled to capacity the six hold 120 billion cubic feet, enough gas to supply company customers for 50

Long Beach, which operates its own municipal gas department,

buys about 34 per cent of its supply from SoCal, with the remainder coming from local sources, O: Rourke said. Once the privately owned utility provided 80-90 per cent to the local utility.

Only foreign propane, expected to be produced in surplus quantities in the Middle East, will be used. U.S. supplies normally are used by farmers and petrochemical manufacturers.

Construction costs of the Wilmington plant that SoCal will build; and operate are budgeted at $5 million, with the the annual cost of propane over the five-year period. estimated at $60 million.

Peanuts eminent, thanks to 1 grower

What the Democratic presidential nominee grows in Georgia are "runner" peanuts, smaller, and nearly always used for peanut butter and other processed products. There is a third type, the small,

However, Carter can take solace in the fact that

N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK - Jimmy Carter has accomplished a lot. The Georgia farmer has done what countless public relations experts and millions of dollars have been struggling to do for decades: He has rescued the peanut from obscurity.

A casual observer wouldn't guess that a sticky sandwich filler, a tasteless oil and a free bar snack could add up to the nation's fifth largest commodity, a major business that provides as much as $200 million's year in income to 64,000 farmers.

But peanuts are big business, and bolstered by the most famous peanut grower in history, the peanut people have gone on the attack.

First, some peanut statistics in the 1974-75 crop year, which ended July 31, 3.7 billion pounds of peanuts were harvested, of which about two-thirds went into "edible uses." Roughly half of the edible crop became peanut butter (which by law must be 90 per cent peanuts or it must be "imitation"), while 21 per cent was sold as salted peanuts, 16.5 per cent was used in candy and

10 per cent was roasted. The remaining third of the crop, the government says is crushed for oil and meal, or is exported or used for seed and feed or is lost on the farm. There are a lot of esoteric uses for the peanut, too, but in the aggregate, they don't count for much.

The peanut industry has been so concerned about its inage that it retains a National Peanut Council He is Jack Springer, a self-described actor and self-styled believer in "peanut power." In addition to his responsibilities to peanuts, Springer is also head of the National Broom and Mop Council. In 1974, he personally presented Jimmy Carter with a certificate making him a member of the "Super Goober

The problem of making peanuts known as some-thing other than kids' stuff has always been a principal concern of the peanut-promoting associations. Where similar trade associations have largely concerned themselves with Washington lobbying, the peanut representatives have also turned to explaining how tasty, nutritious and economical peanuts can be.

Part of their effort involves creative ideas for what to do with peanuts, such as concocting peanut butter milkshakes. The National Peanut Council has many other suggestions, including a peanut quiche, french-fried peanuts, parmesan peanuts and peanut

Attempts to flatter Carter by serving peanuts in the shell may turn out to be a waste of time. Those are nearly always Virginia peanuts, which are the largest and, according to some peanut experts, the

CPC International, maker of Skippy peanut butter, recently raised its prices 2½ cents a pound, citing the subsidy program.

The government program, on the statute books since the 1930s, virtually mandates a price increase for peanuts every year," commented J.H. Vokhardt, president of Best Foods, CPC division. "Consumer prices are forced up."

To protect against low-priced peanut imports, both restrictions and high tariffs have been applied.

Peanut subsidies have long been under attack from nonagrarian legislators, but no one has been able to do much about them. Now, the White House hopes that all the peanut publicity caused by the nation's most famous peanut farmer will provide the push needed to bring the subsidy program into the modern age.

As every schoolchild was taught, Dr. George Washington Carver, the Tuskegee University scientist, was responsible for the early promotion of the peanut. Concerned that southern farmers needed a crop other than cotton to rejuvenate exhausted soil, Carver discovered more than 300 uses for peanuts and their byproducts.

Today peanuts are used in many products. The hulls make sound insulation, wallboard, the cork-like substance found in bottle caps and the like. Crude peanut oil is important for making soaps and detergents. Refined oil, in addition to being about the ightest cooking oil available (although costly), is used in grinding precision instruments, in many pharmaceutical products and as a massage for polio

Peanuts today are a formidable growth industry, increasing at about 21/2 times the rate of the Gross National Product. Last year, for example, sales of peanut butter rose by 10 per cent and during the meat shortage of 1973-74 — when consumers sought a low-cost source of protein, which is peanuts' most formidable attraction — they rose by 15 per cent.

(On a cost benefit basis, the National Peanut Council maintains, peanuts are always number one or two. The only products nearly as nutritious are dried beans and they don't taste as good.)

Consumer spending, jobs brighter

Kecovery predicted into

California's comeback from the 1974-1975 recession is gathering momentum and the economic recovery should carry over well

This theme is contained in the mid-year economic forecast just released by the research and planning division of United California

The UCB mid-year economic outlook notes that consumer spending has been strong, the business sector is now providing more stimulus to the recovery, and new job opportunities are becoming more plentiful.

The only eye-raising problems which still mcrit some concern, the bank report says, is over the unemployment rate, inflation and the housing sector.

UCB's research and planning staff has forecast 250,000 new nonfarm jobs will become available in the state this year. This compares with an actual 17,000-job loss last year because of the economic downturn.

Despite these new jobs - one third of which will be in the services and governmental sectors the state's unemployment rate con-tinued to puzzle economic observ-

From a high rate of 10.5 per cent recorded in September 1975, the state's unemployment rate declined to 9.4 per cent as of July 1976 but was still above the national rate (7.8 per cent). A slowdown in the growth of the labor torce should help further reduce California's unemployment rate to 8.5 per cent by the end of the year, the bank

Here are some of the major features of the mid-year forecast:

Inflation - The news in California and the United States as a whole over the balance of 1976 will not be as pleasing as it was in the first half. An advance in prices of between 6 and 7 per cent is likely for the state. Problem areas in price hikes will be in transportation and the health/recreation sector.

Income - Personal income should move up by 11.6 per cent over 1975 levels to a total of $155 billion for the state. Median family income should reach $16,865, up some $1,550 over the 1975 figure.

Retail sales — The year began like a race horse bolting out of the starting gate, then ran out of gas in May and early June. But heightened promotional activities on the part of retailers may have breathed new life into this sector as the pace of soft goods sales has been quickening. Total sales for the year should be pleasing but not as dazzling as results in the last quarter of 1975 and first quarter of 1976. Total retail sales should hit $71.8 billion, an increase of 12 per cent above 1975 levels. Auto sales — The Cinderella story for the year has been the rebound of the automobile industry and its climb to higher profit levels. Total new car sales in California are up by 17 per cent with domestic manufacturers recording a 33 per cent gain over 1975 and the imports recording a 6 per cent drop from previous year levels. Proposed price increases for the 1977 model cars and the possibility of an automobile strike are the only caution flags raised for the industry over the balance of 1976.

Housing — New homebuilding in the state is ahead of the industry nationally, although the housing construction activity has seesawed with the rate dropping from a January high of 211,000 units to 164,000 units in May, then bouncing back to 206,000 units in June. The apartment sector has staged a good recovery and the housing resale market has been very robust.

The two trouble areas to watch are a possible upturn in mortgage interest rates and the property tax problem facing some of California's larger counties. The UCB forecast is for 170,000 new housing units to be authorized or built during the year, up 29 per cent over 1975's level but still well below the banner year of 1972 when 281,000 new housing units were authorized or con-

There are other problem areas on the horizon which the state's business and legislative leaders may have to face next year, the bank's research and planning division believes.

It points out that the state's national reputation as a place to locate a new plant or facility is not the most favorable, partly because state agencies are promulgating rules and regulations that are driving up the cost of doing business in California.

Another concern, the bank report says, is that little progress has been made on the energy supply problem facing the state. Natural gas available to California from current sources of supply will continue to decline, and operational dates for new offshore supply sources continue to slip back.

Guess who will pay increases in costs of new-car materials

thought to hurt business

But business always passes on its own costs, aside from that which might be absorbed by efficiences and improved technology, or hidden by eutbacks in qkality.

THE QUESTION now is whether the buying public is willing to let the sizable increases in retail car costs go relatively unnoticed, as they did with the earlier increases in the component materials. Or will they rebel?

seems to think the increases, which in General Motors' case amount to nearly 6 per cent, will be accepted by a public eager to continue buying cars at least at the same pace as in 1976.

Customer demand for new cars has been growing, said GM Chairman Thomas Murphy.

GM, for example, has more than a 100-day sup-ply of small cars in its lots, manufactured but left unsold because of buyer resistance. There has to be a message there. Weren't these cars expected to be the big sellers? Could it be that people can't afford them, but if that is so, why are larger. more expensive cars selling better than expected, so well in fact that some dealers cannot meet the demand?

AN EXPLANATION that may be growing in acceptance is that while the upper one-third of the population has indeed emerged from the reces sion, many lower-income families still are mired in troubles.

A quick illustration of the problem is proved by comparing the median family income of between $13,000 and $14,000 with the $4,000-$6,000 price tag on some of the popular models.

Pressed by rising costs of health care, food and shelter, many families don't forget that half the families earn less than the median - roay be unable to purchase cars, no matter the desire or even the need.

Moreover, insurance costs have become almost prohibitive for some families, and the high prices of gasoline, parking, tolls, tires and general maintenance have made the car for some families a finanrial noose.

The carmakers might be correct in assuming the public will absorb the increases complacently, but they are probably assuming too much.

In 'Amelia Earhart' film flying actress at it again

When NBC airs "Amelia Earhart" next October, the three-hour TV movie about the most famous of America's women fliers will have a fairly famous woman flier of modern vintage in the cast.

She's actress Susan Oliver, who a few years ago became a co-winner of the annual Powder Puff Derby race from coast to coast for women private pilots. She also has piloted a small plane across the Atlantic solo.

Miss Oliver, who until last June co-starred in the soap opera "Days of Our Lives" and has appeared in a variety of dramatic roles on TV, doesn't have the lead role in the NBC movie. Susan Clark does.

But she is playing Neta Snook, aviation pioneer who taught Amelia Earhart to fly and became a close friend in the process.

It's ironic that Miss Oliver, a small, soft-spoken woman with blonde hair and a gentle, humorous manner, is playing a flight instructor. An instructor's rating is about the only one she lacks as a

She says she has a glider-pilot's license, a commercial pilot's license, multi-engine and instrument ratings, and she is qualified to fly co-pilot in twin-engine Lear jets. She has 850 flight hours logged, 80 in jets.

Oddly enough, the New York-born actress half-jokingly says she "had to be led kicking and screaming" to her first private-plane ride, although she had flown as a passenger in airliners, of course.

The year of the Really Big Flight was 1964. A boyfriend who had recently got his private-pilot's license kept saying, "I'll take you up and show you the lights of Los Angeles at midnight," she recall-

After about four months of this, she said with a laugh, she made out her will and went with her beau to Santa Monica Airport, where a single-en-gine Cessna 172 was waiting. They took off at night.

It was one of those extraordinary clear nights," she said. "He hights, she said. He kept saying, 'Isn't it beautiful?' and I kept saying, 'Oh, my God!' But then the concept, the idea of flight, got to me. It was fascingting. fascinating.

"So the next day I drove over to the airport, plunked down my money, $650 or so — I still was too scared to take a demonstration ride — and eventually went on and got more ratings than my friend."

Miss Oliver, who in addition to acting and flying also is busy nowadays trying to start other careers as a writer and director, was asked how it feels to be zipping along flying her own plane.

"Well, much of it is relative," she said. "In a Boeing 747, you don't feel as if you're zipping along. In a putt-putt, if you're high enough, it's a lovely kind of ambling across the countryside."

Government pressure and gradual if grudging acceptance of sexual equality in jobs have made it possible for women now to at least get a shot at the previously males-only world of airline flying.

So we asked Susan Oliver, a determined woman, an experienced pilot, which she'd choose if she had a second go-around in life — acting or airlines?

SUSAN OLIVER

"Interesting question," she said after a long pause. "I don't know. I was so tremendously shy as a child that I had a deep need to express my-self. I suppose in acting I do that.

"But I don't know. All our lives would be changed if we were starting in different periods of time."

O.J.? No, he won't be playing for either the Rams or Buffalo Bills in tonight's 7 o'clock National Football League exhibition game at the Coliseum, which has little else to recommend it.

Simpson is supposedly playing tennis with other celebrities in the Robert Kennedy benefit tourna-ment at Forest Hills this weekend, apparently prepared to launch a fulltime movie career. There seems to be little chance that the Rams will sweeten their offer for him, nor that Bills owner Ralph C. Wilson's pride will crack.

However, rumors of a trade were fueled again Friday when the Bills flew to Los Angeles with an entourage that included Ralph Halpern, the club's legal council, and Harvey Johnson, director of player personnel, neither of whom are customarily among the club's traveling party.

There also was a report that Wilson was expected to be in town by independent transportation, and a report from Forest Hills was that Simpson's name was not on the

Sutton, Dodgers on winning track

Remain 8 behind leaders

By GORDON VERRELL Staff Writer

NEW YORK — Twenty wins. It's Don Sutton's long-dreamed-of goal and now he says that even if he attains it this year it won't be his greatest feat as a pitcher.

"Naturally, it would be satisfy-ing," Sutton-said Friday night after winning his 16th, a 5-2 triumph over the New York Mets before 24,508 at Shea Stadium.

It was the Dodgers' 10th win in 11 starts, keeping them eight games behind Cincinnati, which whipped Philadelphia, 4-1.

"But even if I do win 20 it won't be a better wen'for me than the

be a better year for me than the 1972 season (19-9, 2.08 ERA). That was a textbook season. I don't think I'll ever be as good as I was that year, even if I didn't win 20."

Sutton has six, perhaps seven starts remaining and if he pitches in them like he did in his last four he might change his mind.

He's won four successive starts the last three complete games, and he's won nine of his last 10 decisions. In that period his earned run average has been 2.15, a far cry from his over-all 3.72.

"I had a lot of bad luck early and, besides that, I pitched ugly," he said, assessing his early-season showing when he was under .500 and his ERA hovered near 5.00.

"But it seems like I've been getting as much good luck lately as Doug Rau and Tommy John have had bad," he said. His good fortune Friday night came in the form of a two-run firstinning home run by Steve Garvey and a two-run double in the eighth by Steve Yeager that broke a 2-2

It also chased the Mets' starter Jerry Koosman, who had a string of five consecutive victories. He had eight consecutive complete games and 10 wins in his last 11 Yeager, since returning to the lineup four games ago after a dreadful slump, has gone 5-for-12 and has driven in five runs. He hadn't driven in five runs in the first two weeks of August.

"I credit the improvement to a new stance," he said. "I've opened up quite a bit and I've really cut down on my strikeouts.

"Tonight, though, that double was just a case of me hitting the ball where no one caught it. I didn't hit it that good."

After Garvey's homer gave the Dodgers a 2-0 lead in the first, Sutton blanked the Mets on two hits through six innings. But Jerry Grote's first homer in two months, with Ed Kranepool aboard with a walk, tied the score.

In the eighth, Lee Lacy, who had three of the Dodgers' 13 hits. singled with one out and Dusty Baker followed with a single to left. Yeager then doubled to left-center, scoring Lacy and Baker with the decisive runs. Bill Buckner singled home Yeager.

In the ninth inning, Bob Apodaca, the third New York pitcher, got Garvey for the first out, then hit Ron Cey with a high inside pitch.

Fred Norman and Pedro Borbon teamed for a seven-hitter as the Reds snapped a four-game los-ing streak to the Phils, who have won seven of the 10 games played between the teams.

Norman (12-4) got four innings of one-hit relief from Borbon in raising his lifetime record at Riverfront Stadium to 33-9. Norman departed after five innings when his pitching arm tightened.

Morgan extended his National League lead in stolen bases with his RBI total to 94, equalling his career high. The 5-7 infielder is close to becoming the first second baseman in 26 years to drive in more than 100 runs.

The Phils bunched three singles in the first for a 1-0 lead. Larry Bowa beat out a grounder to short and Mike Schmidt singled him to second. After Norman struck out Greg Luzinski, Ollie Brown hit a bouncer up the middle that was stabbed by Dave Concepcion but his throw home was too late to cut

The Reds took a 2-1 lead in the third when Morgan hit a two-out triple and scored on George Fos-ter's single.

Cincinnati provided Norman with a 3-1 margin in the fifth, scoring a run set up by a double steal. After Ken Griffey singled and was forced at second by Morgan, Morgan stole second and teamed up with Johnny Bench, who had walked, to execute a double steal. That's the diet of pitches Ed Bentley frustrated Oshkosh, Wis., with Friday night in leading the surprising Lakewood Jets to a 2-1 victory in the International Softball Congress World Tournament before 2,500 fans at Blair Field.

The win sent the Jets into the winner's bracket finals tonight at 8:30 against Prescott, Ariz., which beat St. Paul 3-0 behind the power pitching of New Zealander Kevin Lakewood, which finished third in the Western Softball Congress and struggled through the state tournament to earn a bid here, scored single runs in the second and third innings, then weathered a seventh-inning rally by Oshkosh.

Bentley allowed only four hits, two of them in the final inning, but he was in trouble constantly as he had a three-ball count on at least half the hitters.

The veteran righthander wasn't afraid to utilize change-ups in those situations, however. He struck out seven and walked two. His catcher, Tim Murray, said he called for offspeed pitches 60 per cent of the

Manager Milt Stark says he will decide today whether to come back with Bentley tonight. He may use Jim Knott, one of three pitchers he has skillfully employed in this tournament_

'Emotionally we are ready and pulling together," said Stark, who had confidently predicted a week ago that his team could win the tournament despite its poor third-place finish in the WSC (26-14) behind the Long Beach Nitehawks and the Lakewood Barons.

Both of those highly touted teams have been eliminated.

The Barons went out early Friday morning when they fell 3-1 to Fresno's Ralph Salazar, who hurled a two-hitter. Salazar was up to his old tricks again Friday night. He pitched five innings in relief of Herman Dunkerkin and struck out 12. Fresno won the game, 1-0, over Phoenix for its

San Diego's Randy Jones found out the best remedy for collaring his elusive 20th victory Friday night was getting a chance to pitch against the Montreal Expos.

BOARD Yanks explode in 15th to drub Angels

By DON MERRY Staff Writer

If nothing else Friday night. Frank Tanana proved himself to be a keen student of history.

He made sure it didn't repeat itself. Remember last Sunday in New York? Frank Tanana does and he kicks himself every time he thinks about it.

On that less-thanmemorable occasion, Tanana, one of the American League's earned run average pace-setters, went skipping into the ninth inning with an 8-0 lead.

But he began celebrat-ing his 15th victory a bit prematurely. Before the inning was over, eight Yanks had paraded across the plate and this highly unlikely happening deprived Tanana of both a shutout and a triumph.

So on Friday night at Anaheim Stadium, Tanana made sure he kept the Yankees at bay - not for eight innings - and not even for nine, or 10 or 11 of 12.

Tanana gave out with 13 innings of superlative pitching, recording 13 strikeouts and literally starving the Yankee hitters on a meager diet of seven singles, some of which did not leave the infield.

The only problem was that Catfish Hunter was doing the same thing for New York, Never before had The Cat gone 13 rounds but he did Friday and the shame of it was that neither pitcher was involved in the final outcome. The issue was left for the bullpens to decide and the Yankees decided it in their favor in the 15th inning when they erupted for five runs and a 5-0 decision.

Hunter, who has defeated the Angels 25 times — more than any other pitcher of this or past eras was Tanana's equal. He effectively spaced 11 hits in his 13 innings but was forced to walk a tightrope

9 1000 Tragedy struck the Angel family Friday night when Russell Chalk, 56, father of shortstop Dave Chalk, was stricken by a heart attack at Anaheim Stadium and died a short time later at St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby

Orange. The elder Chalk was visiting from Arlington, Tex. to see his son perform against the New York Yankees.

Chalk was removed from the game in the seventh inning when he learned of his father's collapse and was at his bedside when he died.

The elder Chalk was treated by a team of doctors after he collapsed in the grandstand behind home plate. He received further attention at the stadium's medical facility before he was transferred to the hospital where he died a short time later.

The Angels loaded the bases in the fourth on a pair of singles and a hit batsmen but Ron Jackson flied out. In the 11th, Mario Guerrero's two-out single sent Terry Humplacy to third base but Guerrero tried to sneak into second on the throw only to be erased.

In all, the Angels stranded 14 runners in the first 14 innings.

Tanana saved his best bit of pitching for his toughest jam of the night.

In the seventh, Lou Piniella opened with a single and an ensuing throwing error by Jackson positioned New York runners at first and third with nobody out.

Tanana responded by striking out Graig Nettles and Willie Randolph. After a cautious walk to Fran Healy, Tanana extricated

FRANK TANANA pitched 13 scoreless innings and struck out 13 as Angels fell in 15 innings to New York, himself by inducing Fred Stanley to hit back to him and received a standing ovation for his efforts.

Mickey Rivers and Roy White ignited the big New York inning with one-out singles off loser Sid Monge. Rivers scored the only run the Yanks needed on Thurman Munson's slow infield roller. The play at the plate was disputed but the Angel argument was brief and ineffective. After Lou Piniella was intentionally walked, Mickey Scott took the mound and was greeted by Chris Chambliss' two-run single. One out later Randolph delivered two more with a triple up the alley in left-center. That was more than sufficient for Grant Jackson who hurled the final two innings in relief of Hunter. Meanwhile, the only satisfaction Tanana realized from the long evening was that when he has a mind to, he can keep throwning blanks. At least at the Yankees.

And they're a pretty de-

Jim Palmer improved his record to 18-11, tops in the American League, by pitching a seven-hitter against It was Palmer's 18th complete game, increasing his record to 12-4 since mid-June. The Rangers are 14-31

When Bobby Grich bounced a double over third baseman Roy Howell's head, Texas leftfielder Gene Clines slipped on the soggy outfield grass racing for the ball near the foul line, allowing Bumbry to score.

Ray Fosse's two-run double highlighted a four-run second inning for Cleveland.

Ken Kravec, with ninth-inning relief help from Dave Hamilton, got credit for his first major league win as the White Sox scored all five of their runs in the first inning. Jim Spencer's two-run homer was the hig shot,

The Rams' perennial Pro Bowl defensive tackle blindsided the press this week when a Los Angeles newspaper solicited his opinions on coverage given the team

"It's frustrating having undereducated fans, or even educated fans, relying on uneducated writers," Olsen was quoted in the headline.

Oooh!

The article said "he emphasized his criticisms were not intended to apply to all writers. He was speaking generally.'

But Olsen, a man of letters, should understand that generaliza-tion is the least valid form of criticism. Nobody escapes when the mud hits the fan.

FOR EXAMPLE, Olsen was critical of writers who conclude a lineman played a good game if he sacked the quarterback three times when "he may, in fact, have had a horrible game.

Are you saying, Merlin, that we shouldn't have voted you all-pro all those years?

Olsen also cites "a willingness heart of his gripe.

"It's difficult," he is quoted, "for me to reconcile honest reporting with the kind of treatment writers are given by the teams.

"A guy would have to think twice before he'd bite down hard on Carroll Rosenbloom or Don Klosterman . . . he might find himself not invited to go on the plane anymore. . . . Olsen mentions Stu Nahan and Dick Enberg, who are employed by the Rams. But he says the thought also would apply to Ross Porter, a sportscaster on Channel 4.

"I think he would be much more comfortable with us and we would be much more comfortable with him than we would with a Olsen is asked, "Why do you suppose that is?" I don't know," he replies.

Could it be, Merlin, because the casually observing TV guys and the hired broadcasters do not include critical objectivity as part of their

THERE ARE other complaints. Olsen believes "there are writers who have their favorites on the team and they're going to get good

Perhaps. The favorites usually are the ones who are "good copy." For example, in the great quarterback contest this summer, Ron Jaworski, who would appear to be the loser, has been the epitome of coop-

Olsen recalls the players' strike of 1974 when "we had a hell of a time getting our side of the story to

Your reporter also recalls several times going to the Ram players' voluntary workouts at Long Beach State to talk to thenplayer rep Tom Mack, who was trying to hold the ranks together.

there is a big sign on the door to the coaches' offices at Recreation Park forbidding entry to anyone but Ram personnel. One time your reporter, interviewing Knox in his office inside the inner sanctum, had stepped into the hallway so Knox could take a private phone call. The angry voice of an assistant whose name does not matter came from the darkness of another room: "What's Rich Roberts doing in here?"

That's the way it is, Merlin. Maybe we could work a compromise: You play tackle; we'll write the stories. Otherwise, we may have to call in Conrad Dobler to

Winning restored his confidence."

"My main problem is to keep the stable help from drinking his beer," Sarazin said. "I buy a case a week for him and he gets a bottle before each meal. It seems to give him an appetite.'

Eddie Dunnigan 'Skedaddles' to first harness win

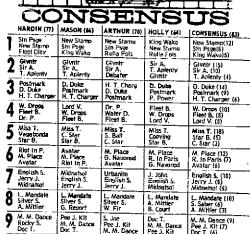

Skedaddle N. from New Zealand overhauled 1-2 favorite Peter Lobell in the stretch to win the featured $15,000 Imperial Pace Friday night at Hollywood Park.

The victory gave newcomer Eddie Dunnigan his first driving win on the West Coast. The 27-year-old native of New York City is the son of Jim Dunningan, chairman of the board of the SCRA Harness Assocation at Los Alamitos

Peter Lobell cut the entire mile and was second, holding off H A's a Pet. Dunnigan eased to the outside at the top of the stretch and urgred Skedaddle N. to get up in the final strides. It was the ninth win in 20 starts this season, paying $13.20, $3.80 and $2.40 across the board.

KEEP OUT heads a field of six in tonight's featured $10,000 City of Torrance Pace.

Arnie's Army 'lifts' Graham into shot lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) -Australian David Graham ignored the moans and groans of Arnie's Army and pieced together a five-under-par 67 for a one-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $200,-000 American Golf Classic.

Graham, who has won titles on four continents, writes a column for a golf magazine and ranks as one of the game's better club designers, put together a 36-hole total of 136, eight-under-par for two trips around the 7,105-yard North course at the Firestone Countr, Club.

"I didn't do anything I don't normally do," shrugged Graham, winner of the rich Westchester Classic two weeks ago. "I was hitting the ball well and putting well. The thing is, I've only had one bogey (on the first hole of the tournament) in 36 holes." He also credited his pairing with Arnold Palmer-often considered a handicap because of the vast, enthusiastic mobs that follow the legendary 46-year-old master-with aiding his fast start in this invitational event.

"You always hear how difficult it is because of the screaming of the crowds," Graham said, "but I don't think I've ever enjoyed two days of golf as much. Maybe I concentated a bit more playing with him.'

Reid wins Pac-Am golf title

Mike Reid showed the pressure-resistant form he hopes to use on the pro-golf tour when he carved out a three-under-par 68 Friday to win the Pacific Coast Amateur golf tournament.

Reid, a 22-year-old from Kirkland, Wash. who attends Brigham Young University, won a see-saw battle with third-round leader Tony Sills and University of Oregon golfer Peter Jacobsen. Reid started the day one shot behind Sills but pulled even on the sixth hole and took a one-shot edge on the eighth with a 20-foot birdie putt. He bogeyed the ninth, but on the 10th again birdied and Sills dropped two strokes further behind with a bogey. Jacobsen then challeng ed, but Reid scored birdies on the tough par 4 16th and 17th holes to close out the four-round tournament with a three-under 281, four shots ahead of Jacob-

Tied for third were Mike Brannan of BYU and Lee Davis of Los Angeles with 286 scores.

Lennie Clements of Poway, Calif., tied Sills for fourth at 288.

Reid, who helped BYU take second in the NCAA golf championships behind Oklahoma State, said after the tournament he would not return to BYU next semester but would attempt to earn his tournament players card in December.

FERRERI TESTS ZARATE TONIGHT

Paul Ferreri of Australia, a lefthanded boxing stylist, doesn't worry about the knockout punching of Carlos Zarate, although the Mexican smashed his way to the World Boxing Council bantamweight title.

Zarate, 24, makes his first defense against the 26-year-old Aussie and rates as a prohibitive favorite at the Forum tonight. The preliminary bouts begin at 8.

"I've fought hard punchers before and they haven't worried me," said Ferreri, who has a 60-3-1 record. However, he hasn't fought anyone like Zarate, who is 41-0 with 40 knockouts. Zarate says he'll stop the Aussie within eight rounds of the scheduled 15, while Ferreri says, "I'll win any way I'm able. I'll find out what he has in the first round and then take it from there."

In a companion 10-rounder, former 118-pound champion Lionel Rose of Australia will meet Mexico's Bazooka Limon, who holds a victory over former world featherweight champion Bobby Chacon.

The first preliminary match features Sigfrido Rodriguez against Joe Hernandez in a junior lightweight fight. Tickets are $40, $30, $20, $15 and $10.

NFL first loser in Delaware football gambling program

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The National Football League lost its attempt to stop the state of Delaware from starting a professional football lottery next week when a federal judge ruled against it Friday.

U.S. District Court Judge Walter Stapleton turned down the NFL's request for a temporary restraining order to block the state from beginning the nation's first state-run professional football betting program.

In his order, Stapleton said he did not agree with NFL attorneys that the league would suffer "irreparable barm" from the lettery.

Tickets are scheduled to go on sale Wednesday. Judge Stapleton's opinion, only 11/2 pages long, gave no further reasons for his decision. Lawyers for the NFL had argued during a court hearing Wednesday before Stepleton that the "forced association" with gambling would change the "public perception of the game from the scoreboard to the tote

But lawyers for Delaware said the game would merely be an extension of the office betting pools and cards played illegally by millions of persons for years.

Delaware expects to make about $2 million this year on the weekly game. Some of the other 13 states with lotteries were reportedly considering beginning the same type of lottery and were waiting to see what happenend in the Delaware case.

The lottery would have two parts.

\star HOW TO PLAY \star

CASH-O is a weekly game played with numbers. Games begin on Thursday and end on Tuesday. A CASH-O chart will be published each of these days in the Independent Press-Telegram. A CASH-O chart contains 24 number boxes and a CASH-O box in the center. Three or four new numbers will be published each day Thursday through Tuesday. A folal of 23 numbers will be published by Tuesday. Copy the published numbers on your CASH-O entry form (or draw your own entry form) as they appear in the Independent Press-Telegram each day. Thursday through Tuesday. By Tuesday you will find that there are only two numbers missing. When you fill in the two correct numbers you have solved CASH-O. How you arrive at the correct solution to CASH-O and what the two missing numbers are, is what makes CASH-O a real challenge. Look out! CASH-O may fool you. To solve CASH-O way have to add, subtract, multiply, divide or you may have to do a combination of those things. You may even have to find another way to solve CASH-O, such as by inverting numbers or by seeling a pattern develop which could lead you to a solution. CASH-O is tricky. It's not only a new game with a new solution each week, but the method of solution may also change each week. Watch it:

Joseph Turner, 23, killed John E. Hardin, 37, of Penrose; Hardin's wife, Toni, 35, and children Laurie, 15; Carol, 13; and Jim, 3, after being released from the Fremont County Jail to load hay on

the Hardin ranch Thurs-

day. A telephone repairman investigating reports that the family's telephone was off the hook found the bodies of Hardin and his wife in their garage Friday morning and notified sheriff's deputies, who found the bodies of the children in the house.

Fremont County Coroner Henry Graybow said
Mrs. Hardin and the couple's two daughters had been raped. He said one of the victims was shot in the head, but the bodies of the other four were so badly battered he could not immediately determine the cause of death.

A Morgan County farm woman told police a man in a pickup truck matching the description of Hardin's vehicle tried to cross her property on Friday. The truck was spotted later north of Sterling, which is just northeast of Fort. Morgan, where the unidentified elderly woman and two girls were taken hostage.

Authorities gave no details but said Turner raped one of the girls, aged 14, in a barn and the Hardin truck a short while later, overheated and stalled on Balzac Road seven miles north-east of Hillcrest. A farm-er, Burlie Segelke, had stopped a few minutes carlier and was attempt-ing to get the truck started by pushing it.

Senate told of 'blackmail' by cadet lawyers

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Army lawyers holding affidavits which they say implicate hun-dreds of cadets in the U.S. Military Academy's worst cheating scandal were ac-cused of virtual blackmail Friday by the chairman of a Senate subcommittee.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., who heads the manpower and personnel subcommit-tee, made the accusation tee, made the accusation in a Senate speech a few hours after the Academy's superintendent appealed to accused cadets here to turn over the affidavits.

"At any time anyone shares them with us, we would welcome them," Lt. Gen. Sidney B. Berry told reporters. He said the Army would "search out" additional honor code violators "with whatever evidence is provided."

A defense lawyer said later that the accused cadets were, in fact, preparing to turn over the documents in which cadets already charged purport-edly detail other honor code violations and name participants.
"It is important to realize ... that it is the defense counsel themselves who counsel Inemseives who bear the principal responsibility for the failure to conduct a thorough inquiry into the extent of cheating at West Point."

Nunn told the Senate. He continued:

"Yet in a flagrant at-tempt to intimidate — some may say blackmail — the Army into reinstating their clients, they have refused to turn these affidavits over to the Army for investigation.

"Thus, on the one hand defense counsel berate the Army for not pursuing a thorough investigation of cheating at West Point, while on the other they refuse to make available information without which such an investigation is impossible." Meantime, Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okia., urged a staff investigation by the Senate Armed Services Committee, saying, "Extensive cheating is symptomatic of a deeper illness in the honor system itself."

A spokesman for Nunn said that the recommendation was being considered to assess attitudes about the bonor code and that any changes in the code should be left to the

all members of the class of 1977 - convicted of violating the code by collaborating on graded electrical engineering homework, reached 93 on Friday, three more than the cribbing resignations in what is known as the 1951 foot-ts known as the 1931 foot-ball scandal.

To date, the number of cadets who have been implicated, some of them cleared, is 202, almost one-fourth of the class. With the remaining cases dis-missed, 47 cadets have charges pending before officer boards.

'Entertaining' bank arrest

PASADENA (AP) - Pasadena detective Gary Bennett thought it would be a simple arrest Friday when a bank manager notified him that a wanted man had just walked in the door.

"But he didn't want to go to jail, so we had to roll around a bit." Bennett said, summing up a 15-minute struggle that provided entertainment for — but prompted no offers of help from — the people in the bank.

"There were 30 or 35 people standing around. The bank guard didn't show up until it was almost over," he

The incident began when Bennett was notified that Bob Clausell, wanted for investigation of burglary and receiving stolen goods, had walked into the United California Bank.

Bennett said he and woman detective Marjorie Munro attempted to serve Clausell with a federal war-rant. But a struggle broke out and bank personnel and customers looked on until police units arrived to bring the man under control. Clausell, 26, described as a transient, was booked for the charges described in the federal warrant and for battery on a police officer. Bennett said he was too busy struggling with Clausell to ask bystanders for help. But the event had an air of unreality, he said.

Prince Bernhard and Queen Juliana stayed out of the public eye at Soest-dijk Palace in The Hague on Friday while the Dutch parliament prepared for a debate Monday on the Lockheed payoff scandal which forced Bernhard to resign all public pòsts.

Bernhard's resignation as inspector general of the armed forces and from other public and private positions was announced by Premier Joop Den Uyl.

MIAMI - Emmy, the Atlantic's third hurricane of the 1976 season and the most eccentric in recent years, turned again to the north Friday and forecasters said it might head back toward land.

Emmy's 110-mile-an-hour winds were centered near latitude 31.5 north and longitude 53.5 west or about 650 miles east-southeast of Bermuda. Emmy, still far out in the Atlantic, was moving north at 10 m.p.h.

There is a good possibility the hurricane will once again return to a north-westersly course" by today, said Dr. Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center. - Like most tropical weather systems, Emmy developed into a tropical storm during a westward trip toward the Carib-bean islands. But it began veering north and glanced off the Leeward Islands before heading into open waters.

Recall

My sister told me that she had heard on the news recently that certain brands of pacifiers have been recalled because a baby choked to death on one of them. I haven't read anything about this and my sister can't budget cut remember the brand names involved. Can Action Line give me a list of the recalled pacifiers? Mrs. B.S., Lakewood.

The pacifiers involved in the recall were manufactured by La Cibeles Inc. and were marketed in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, Florida and Puerto Rico. The recall was ordered in February by the Consumer Product Safety Commission after a 5-monthold New York infant choked to death when he swallowed a part of the pacifier. The commission reissued its warning about the pacifiers earlier this month to alert parents whose infants may still be using one of the four rypes of La Cibeles pacifiers. The four models are called Fauna, Flower, Texas and Navy, and the handles on these pacifiers are in the shape of an animal's head, a flower, a baby wearing a cowboy hat or a baby wearing a sailor's hat. The pacifiers were made in Spain. Com-mission officials don't believe the pacifiers were resold to any California retailers, but they have issued the warning in every state just in case they're in use in other areas besides the East Coast.

Bubble Yum

I would like to find out why Bubble Yum, which is made by the Life Saver company, is off the market. I can't buy it anywhere in the Long Beach area. Their commercial says there is no more because they ran out. But I've heard rumors that they took it off the market because it caused some cases of mouth cancer. Who is "The demand is simply exceeding our supply at the moment," the official said, "and we have about 1,000 letters similar to your reader's." He said the gum never has been related to cancer. After limited distribution on the test market for two years, the company announced it would distribute the product company announced it would distribute the product nationally last December, around the time when the U.S. Food and Drug Administration banned the use of red dye number 2. Although none of that dye was being used by the company, the gum is red and consumers jumped to their own conclusions. "The gum is safe and will be available everywhere very soon," he said. "We make superior claims for our bubbles, too," though he acknowledged the company would be hard put to document them." ment them."

Paid piper

I'm trying to find a plumbing school. Can Action Line tell me where I can learn plumbing? K.I., Long

The Plumbers and Steamfitters Union Local 494, 1246 Locust Ave., has its own plumbing school, but it is not easy to become a student. Applications are taken once a year, and there usually are about 200 applicants for 10 to 12 openings. Applicants must be high school graduates and are given a written test and an interview. Those who are accepted attend school three nights a week, nine months each year for five years. At the end of the five years they can take the state exam to qualify them as journeymen plumbers. Most students, while in school, work during the day as apprentices for union school, work during the day as apprentices for union plumbers. There also is a nonunion school given by the Plumbing, Heating, Cooling Contractors of the Greater Los Angeles Area, 2212 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles. Theirs is a four-year, one-night-a-week course. However, before you can apply to the school, you must be hired as an apprentice by a plumber who is a PHCC member.

CORRECTION
In the recent item about the Acc Glass Service, 21627 S. RTD strike: rhetoric but no progress

Unions representing striking drivers and me-chanies traded accusa-tions with the Southern California Rapid Transit District (RTD) Priday, and both sides said quick set-tlement of the five-day-old strike seemed unlikely. SACRAMENTO (AP)-An 18-month freeze on judges' salary increases was approved by a 25-to-5 vote of the Senate Friday and sent to the Assembly.

The vote came after a debate in which even opponents of the bill sponsored by Gov. Brown said they wanted to eliminate the "privileged position" of California judges.

The bill by Assemblyman John Knox, D-Rich-mond, would repeal a law which requires that judges get annual pay increases matching increases in the consumer price index.

That gave California judges raises of up over 10 per cent in recent years when other state employes, including state legislators, were granted raises of 5 to 7 per cent.

THE Knox bill would allow one final cost-of-living increase for judges next month but would then freeze their salaries from Jan. 1, 1977, to July 1, 1978. Then it would put a 5 per cent cap on future

"It is fair, it is equitable, it is long overdue" that California "eliminate the privileged position judges have enjoyed," said Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, Senate sponsor of the measure.

Roberti said salaries of California judges have doubled in the past six years under the cost-of-living law and now range from $45,235 for municipal court judges to $66,869 for the chief justice of the California Supreme Court.

"THOSE of us in the Legislature work far harder for far less," Roberti said. Legislators earn $21,-132 annually, plus expenses of $6,000 to $10,000

Sun. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, was the only legislator to speak against the bill. He said he against the oil. He said he wanted to repeal the judges' "special privilege" pay law but that the Knox measure was "a sneaky way of doing it."

Two earlier versions of the measure died in legislative empittees, and the lative committees, and the provisions were amended into Knox's bill "late at night Aug. 13 before (Sen-ate) Judicial Committee without notice," Carpenter complained.

"This matter should be

SACRAMENTO (AP) --Counties with budget problems should consider cutting services rather than come to the state for help that could lead to statewide tax increases, Gov.

Brown commented at an impromptu news confer-ence as he prepared to sign an urgency bill fresh from Senate passage that allows Los Angeles County to reopen its current budget and make cuts. The Senate approved the bill

Brown said his state policy still is no new taxes, and the best way to keep his pledge is for "local government to be as austere as possible" and "not come to Sacra-mento" where "all we can do is raise the sales tax."
"The only sure road to avoid taxes is (to) cut services, increase produc-tivity," Brown said, de-clining to give his opinion of what Los Angeles should cut.

The measure gives Los Angeles County until Sept. 15, instead of the normal Aug. 31 deadline, to set a property tax rate. It allows supervisors to cut from the budget as long as notice of public hearing is given 24 hours in advance. For proposed cuts in health services, a 60-day advance notice is required. Existing labor contracts with county em-ployes cannot be aftered.

ficial gene put in living cell

CAMBRIDGE. Mass. (AP) — Scientists say they have artificially created a gene, the basic unit of heredity, and planted it in a living cell, where it worked like its real-life model.

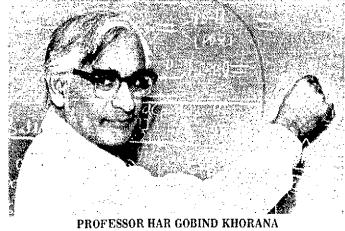

The discovery at Massa chusetts Institute Technology was described by biologists as a major breakthrough in the study of genetics.

The scientists say they will next begin shifting about the internal chemistry of the gene to find out why it functions only at precise moment it is needed in the development

We would like to find out how a gene turns itself on- and off, said Dr.

Hans-Joachim Fritz, one of the scientists on the project. 'No other approach offers an equally exact method of changing the gene's structure and looking at the change in its function."

The new achievement is a significant step toward better understanding of fundamental life processes, and perhaps, in time, the ability to manipulate genes for human benefit. Genetic diseases might, for example, be treated by substituting healthy, man-made genes

Khorana, who won the Nobel Prize in 1968 for his genetic research, created the first artificial gene the duplicate of one found in yeast cells - in 1970. But this gene was incomplete and could not be

About a week ago, they finally had their results.
"The Petri dish had the spots on it we expected," Fritz said. "It was pretty

At Harvard, Dr. Fotis Kafatos is working on a project that uses an organic method of duplicating

"Their breakthrough was developing this gene," he said. "Now they have demonstrated that it can work. This is very impor-tant. But I am not sur-prised that it worked."

A gene is the fundamental unit of heredity. It is a minute bit of information that directs the development of all that is alive. Everything from the color of a tomato's skin to the shape of a man's nose is determined by genes.

Each gene contains the instructions for making a single kind of protein. Genes are linked together in long strands of acid called DNA, and each is made up of four separate, complex chemicals called nucleotides. These nucleotides are available to scientists from commercial chemi-

- The United States and North Korea agreed Friday to a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission today to discuss the American response to a Communist proposal for partitioning the Panmunjom ∷truce village.

North Korea had suggested the partition plan, to-separate United Nations and Communist security guards, after a United States demand for assurances that there would be no further attacks like that in which two Army officers were killed last week.

At the same time, reliable United States and Ko-rean sources said Friday that at least some of the North Korean guards responsible for the killings at Pannuntom may have been replaced.

Whether this action represents a further conciliato-effort by North Korea to defuse the current crisis along the demilitarized zone is unclear.

According to intelligence, specialists here, North Korea still has not made public to its people a message sent by President Kim il-Sung to the United Nations monimand last Saturday expressing regret for the killings.

The specialists believe Kim's message was so amusual — it was his first response to an American demand since the end of the Korean War — that, as one manalyst put it, it "amounted to virtual capitulation."

U.S. N. Korea U.S. to sell Iran 160 F16

WASHINGTON-Secretary of State Henry Kiss-inger told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee Friday that the United states had agreed to sell Iran 160 new generation F16 fighter planes at a cost of about $3.4 billion.

Kissinger said the administration had decided to go ahead with the sale despite a staff study by the Foreign Relations Committee earlier this month that said Iran was unable to absorb the sophisticated equipment it

But he stressed that delivery of the new General Dynamics fighters would not begin until 1979, when 10 trainers will be shipped to Iran. He said the remaining 150 planes would be sent over the fol-

According to partici-pants in the two-hour ses-sion, Kissinger said a formal notification would be sent to Congress Mon-day on the pending FIS day on the pending F16 deal as well as on an additional $600 million in Ira-nian orders for Sidewinder, Phoenix and Sparrow missiles, making a total of $4 billion.

The administration has defended fran's massive purchases—about $10 billion in the last few years and another $10 billion estimated for the second hald of this decade-be-cause of Iran's concern about having to defend borders with the Soviet Union and Iraq and a fear of possible trouble from the direction of India.

The committee's staff report, whose conclusions Shah Reza Pahlevi rejected when Kissinger visited him in Iran earlier this month, said that "selfsufficiency is not attainable" for the Iranian Air Force in the foreseeable future, even if it makes no additional major pur-

At the time the report was written, Iran's most modern system was the F14, a larger and more complex aircraft than the F16. The F16 is the plane of the future for most of America's European allies, who have ordered it in quantity.

Kissinger appeared be-fore the subcommittee Friday to continue a discussion started Thursday on contemplated sales to

Saudi Arabia Most of Friday's discussion dealt with the Saudi issue, par-ticipants said, with only a lew questions raised about sales to Iran.

Kissinger told the senators the administration planned to sell $573 million in equipment to Saudi Ara bia, including some 1,000 sidewinder missiles.

Lockheed pay scandal perils world leaders

The multimillion-dollar Lockheed payoff scandal has stained major public figures in the Netherlands and Japan and threatens top politicians in Italy and West Germany.

Shortly after Lockheed ireraft Corp. officials told a U.S. Senate subcommittee in March that the company had paid $24.4 million in several countries to push sales of its airplanes, the search for the recipients of those payments began.

Holland's probe reached a climax Thursday with Prince Bernhard's relirement from public and business life. But in at least three other countries investigators are still eift. investigators are still sift-ing through festimony and documents that could determine the fate of leading public figures. A former Japanese prime minister has been arrested and faces criminal trial, prominent Italian politicians remain under a cloud of scandal West Germany sending an envoy to the United States to inspect Justice Department and Lockheed records for possible irregularities in German plane purchases. Among developments:

—West German govern-ent spokesman Klaus Boelling announced in Bonn on Friday that Undersecretary of Justice Guenther Erkel would leave soon for Washington Erkel's findings will determine whether a formal inquiry will be made into the purchase of 1,000 Lockheed Starfighter jets in the 1960s for the West German air force and navy, he

The announcement was prompted by reporters' questions in the wake of developments in the Netherlands, which also bought Starfighters, the spokes-man said. West Germany is in the midst of a national election campaign, but Boelling denied that polities was a factor in the Social Democratic government's decision to send the mission.

Franz Josef Strauss, defense minister who authorized the Starfighter purchase, and Strauss' opposition party, the Christian Social Union of Bayaria, have denied published allegations by former Lockheed official Ernest Hauser that the party collected Lockheed

During its probe into Lockheed payments abroad early this year, the U.S. Senate subcommittee on multinational corpora-tions took testimony from Hauser about Lockheed payments to European officials. But Chairman Frank Church. D-Idaho. said last March 10 the panel decided not to release his testimony about Germany because it was unable to substantiate it.

—In the Netherlands, Queen Juliana and Prince

Bernhard, her husband. were in seclusion at the Soestdijk Palace as the nation braced for a fulldress parliamentary debate Monday over the government's handling of Bernhard's relations with Lockheed, described by an investigation commission as improper and harmful to national interests. Qualified sources said par-liament probably would approve the course announced Thursday by Prime Minister Joop den Uyl – Bernhard's expression of regret and his resignation from all public and business positions without prosecution. The commission said it found no firm evidence that he had taken any of $1.1 million in Lockheed payments under investigation.

Some parliamentarians were expected to demand greater ministerial super-vision of royal-family ac-

The Senate subcommit-tee testimony that Lockheed officials spent $12.6 million in Japan influencing the purchase by All-Nippon Airways of Lockheed TriStar jetliners shocked the Japanese and has threatened to split the riding Liberal-Democratic Party, headed by Tana-ka's successor, Prime ka's successor, Prime Minister Takeo Miki, Miki has promised to clear up the affair by late Septem-ber, but political rivals, incensed by the investiga tion, are stepping up pressure to oust him The Liberal-Democratic majority this week beat down a combined opposition motion for a parlia-mentary committee to take testimony in the Lockbeed case.

—In Italy, several leaders of the ruling Christian Democratic Party, includ-ing one of the three prime ministers in office be-tween 1968 and 1970, have been accused of sharing in $1.6 million in Lockheed money purportedly spent to influence purchase of C130 Hercules transports. All have denied involvement in the affair.

An Italian parliamentary commission that gathered evidence in Washington earlier this year lost its mandate with the June 20 national election, and the new commission has not yet started work.

Legion disease now thought to be over

PHILADELPHIA Federal scientists at the Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta said Friday that the outbreak of "Legionnaires' disease" in Philadelphia "appears to be over."

"Surveys of guests staying at three Philadelphia holels in the two weeks following the convention showed no evidence of continuing risk," the CDC said in its weekly report on national diseases and deaths. "Results of a questionating surror, of sight tionnaire survey of sick and well Legionnaires demonstrated that persons at greatest risk of illness were voting delegates who stayed at one hotel."

THAT HOTEL was the Bellevue Stratford, head-quarters for the July 21-24 state American Legion convention.

Meanwhile, the Pennsylvania Medical Society announced Friday that it was proceeding with plans to hold its annual meeting of its House of Delegates at the Bellevue, Sept. 16-18. The society said the hotel had been thoroughly checked, and no evidence had emerged to indicate a health hazard.

Auditor calls for big cuts in city spending

New City Auditor Robert Fronke is asking the City Council to demand a slash in city operating costs because of a dramatic increase in taxes this year.

In a letter to be presented to the council on Tuesday, Fronke says a combined jump in assessed property valuations made recently. property valuations, made recently by County Tax Assessor Phillip Watson, and a city tax rate hike for 1976-77 will mean an average in-crease for Long Beach taxpayers of 15.8 per cent.
In the same letter, Fronke officially set the current tax rate at $2.18 per $100 of assessed valuation, a fraction of a percentage point above the estimated $2.17, and a 9.7-cent rise over last year.

The increase, however, is not as great as council members had feared earlier. When they added $291,000 to the more than $284 mil-lion budget last month, there was speculation the tax rate might in-crease as much as 11 cents.

The new rate, coupled with an average 10.6 per cent increase in assessed valuation, will result in the second largest increase in a tax levy in recent city history, Fronke said.

The levy will yield close to $23 million, up $3.1 million from the preceding year.

The greater portion of money to balance the budget — aside from the almost $23 million the levy will produce - comes from various special revenues, capital and trust funds and income from the gas, harbor and water departments. Fronke's assistant, Jay W. Hansen, said that although not all homes in Long Beach have been reassessed in Watson's campaign to bring assessed valuations up, in light of rising market values, owners of those which have been reassessed will find their taxes up more than 15 per cent on the average.

Hansen said the increase applies just to Long Beach city taxes; county and other taxes are not included.

In urging more economy in government, Fronke said, "We . . . respectfully suggest your honorable body (the council) require management to develop and implement, as a matter of highest priority, a cost reduction program for the entire city."

He said his office stands ready to help.

Fronke became city auditor in June, replacing Murray T. Courson who retired.

The spokesman said a final decision probably will not be made until after an Oct. 6 public meeting with Port Hueneme officials.

James McJunkin, assistant general manager of the Long Beach Harbor Department, said Mazda imported 11,809 units — at a fee of $10 each — through the local port during the 1975-76 fiscal year.

During July, about 3,700 Mazdas were stored on Harbor Department land, according to figures released by the comptroller's office. The port received $14,385 in fees for the storage of those vehi-

The last shipment of Mazdas into the port, he pointed out, was made in April, meaning none of the cars were offloaded here during the last four months.

The Mazda spokesman, mean-while, estimated that between 12,-000 and 14,000 of the ears and trucks will be imported through Port Hueneme during 1977 if the firm consolidates its Long Beach and Richmond operations.

He did not explain why the projected number of imports was so low, considering the firm's Port Hueneme facility would be han-dling cargo previously assigned to two ports.

Plans for Spruce Goose museum

By HERB SHANNON Aerospace Editor

Plans for opening a temporary museum for Howard Hughes Spruce Goose at the drydock location in Long Beach Harbor- where the huge craft has remained since its only light in 1947—were disclosed Friday by the Save Aviation History Association.

William Seelig, president of the Institute of Engineering Sciences and coordinator of the museum effort, said public dis-play could be accomplished with a minimum of construction at the present location while a permanent site is readied.

Suggested locations for a permanent museum include a manmade island off the Long Beach coast, Anahelm Bay (at the Seal Beach Naval Weapons Station). Reeves Field on Terminai Island and the San Pedro

Seelig said support for the museum has been obtained from various local and federal government officials, including Reps Mark Hannaford and Glenn Anderson of Long Beach, and Los Angeles City Council President John S. Gibson, who represents San Pedro.

Approval in principle also has been given by the Summa Corp., the Hughes holding company, the Smithsonian Institution, and others whose owner-ship of the flying boat is now the subject of complicated litigation, according to Seelig.

according to Seelig.

The giant aircraft is reported to be in "excellent condition," by Smithsonian officials who recently inspected it, Seelig said, and its preservation conceivably could lead to the federal government eventually reaping the benefit of research in wooden airframe technology for which it was built.

A fundraising effort to help finance the museum has result-ed in a recording that recreates the excitement of the only flight of the flying boat. The recording is from a historic midflight broadcast.

"She wants to fly," the industrialist said as an engineer in the huge cockpit recorded his words on a disc turntable. "All I had to do (to be airborne) was pull back a bit on the controls."

On a second test run, as Hughes turned the Hercules downwind toward the starting point, Hughes explained that there were many systems to be tested before the first flight, which he assured the reporter was not scheduled for at least three months.

Hughes then began reading the airspeed indicator aloud as the aircraft outraced chase boats on the second run. At 75 mph, the plane was airborne-for less than a mile.

Later, asked if he was surprised, Hughes answered, "No, I just thought I'd make a sur-

Vegetables that can be seeded now for winter-harvest include peas, spinach, carrots, radishes, beets, turnips, and endive. These will germinate quickly since the soil is warm and they will be ready for harvest before you know it.

Thanks to a favorable climate, Californians, for the most part, have an advantage over Easterners when it comes to winter vegetables. Residents of the Golden State can be harvesting vegetables when, elsewhere, snow covers the ground, or zero temperatures often prevail often prevail.

The time for planting the so-called cool season vegetables is at hand, in most areas of the state. Nurseries have seeds of a long list of vegetables that can be planted now -- especially in the coming weeks, for winter and spring harvest. Even so, the California Association of Nurserymen advises not to hurry out and plant everything available.

Rather, plant what members of the house-hold will enjoy. Plant a realistic supply in relation to the size of the family. This will help in the decision of how much garden space will be needed for the home vegetable garden.

Elements of success for growing vegetables include soil preparation, adequate feeding, regular watering, and especially, the correct varieties for the season.

Your nurseryman can outline soil preparation procedures; water plants by furrow irriga-tion and feed at least twice during the growing season. A very important item is to pick the mature crop as soon as it is ready - and enjoy.

Tomatoes: the everything vegetables

There's one vegetable you can grow in a greenhouse rater's one vegetable you can grow in a greenhouse or outdoors; in langing baskets, patio tubs or in your garden. You can select from bite-sized varieties to buge slicing types. And choose your colors — red, pink, yellow, even white.

because it's a very big producer. In most cases you can harvest fruit all summer long and right up to frost. Green truit at frost time can be brought into the house to ripen during the next month or so.

It's the number one favorite vegetable in the United States and many other countries.

In case you haven't guessed, we're talking about the tomatoe.

Recorded history dates the tomato back some 350 years, at which time it was considered pretty, but poisonous. It wasn't until about 1850 that tomatoes were generally grown for food in America, even though President Jefferson listed them in his vegetable garden crop

Since then, and especially in recent years, plant breeders have been very busy. The result is enough varieties on the market to baffle the average home gardener. The Ball Seed Company wholesale catalog lists 75 different varieties for home garden and commer-

It all brings up the question, "What should you look for in a tomato for your backyard garden?"

For purposes of discussion, let's think of a regular-sized tomato that can be cut up for salads, sliced for sandwiches, stewed for immediate eating or canning, boiled-down for tomato paste, cooked for juice or just plain eaten like an apple.

One such tomato is a new one this year called Super

just 70 days after planting out.
From the growing standpoint, Super Fantastic VF offers very good disease tolerance. That's what the VF stands for. What's even more exceptional is that it sets fruit on the first blooms. Most tomatoes don't.

These advantages are the result of F1 hybrid breeding. This also produces strong vigorous plants that will give you bright red fruit right up to the first frost in the fall—if you live in frost prone area cooking purposes.

Maybe that's why it's called the "love apple".

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Vines are used for screening purposes and for narrow soil spaces where it isn't practical to grow shrubs. Some vines provide needed green color, others are used for their attractive h lossoms as well as for screening.

One of the interesting vines used is Clytostoma (klytostoma) whose only one specie name is calystegioides (prounced kal-is-tee-ji-oydeez).

How how would you like to have such a name?

The first name is from Greek for splendid, and mouth in reference to the showy corolla (petals united as in a bellflower or morning glovy). The seemorning glory). The second name means resem-bling a plant Calystegia which is an obsolete name for some morning glory.

Wood fences require hori-zontal wires spaced a foot apart up the fence. The wires are attached to screw eves at intervals and drawn taught. The vine canes are tied to the wires and trained to form a covering.
A gardener whould not

The old name of the above vine, was Bignonia violacea, the "purple trumpet plant". This vine has light lavender to purple, fragrant blossoms in the spring. The leaves drop as the vine begins to flower and soon the new leaves develop for the year.

persons, Bess Chestnut, Margaret C. Crill, Jean Fogelman, Koloa Roster and Eva Short all graciously answered my garden column inquiry on growing plumeria. These five home gardeners invited me to come and see their lovely plants. I saw plumerias ranging in size from a gallon can with a large head of numerous delightfully fra-grant white flowers, on up to easily the tallest of about 15 to 18 feet high.

The consensus was that plants should be kept on the dry side, but watered well when thirsty. Constant moisture tends to rot

the plants.
Several of the ladies started theirs from cuttings. The branches are somewhat brittle, and the somewhat brittle, and the smaller ones can break easily. The cuttings six inches and longer are started like the poinsettia cuttings. . . placed in soil when the white sap has stopped bleeding. Defense of blue-doming

"I prefer to worship under the blue dome of

This trite remark always irritates the clergy. They are annoyed on two levels.

This first is personal and professional. The blue-domer, they feel, is not getting what their services should be offering.

The second level is more profound. A church is a brotherhood based upon all the past and extending to the end of the world. It is a communion of people dedicated to love of God and each other.

The blue-domer, how-ever, is an isolationist. Even if he has company, he is fleeing from mankind. He wants to be alone, freed of duties to his fellow men.

The right place to be on Sunday morning is in church," the clergy say sternly.

They have a strong case, but there is also a case to be made for bluedomers.

First of all, let's recognize that, as in most con-troversies, this is not an either/or matter. One can be a devoted church member and a blue-domer. In fact, many clergymen, among them some of the best, are ardent blue-domers. Often after a day or two of blue-doming the pastor's next sermon has a greater vibrancy and depth of meaning.

IS BLUE-DOMING

WORSHIP?
Well, there are many kinds of blue-domers.

A golfer can scarcely be described as a worshiper of God or the gods of na-ture. He may invoke all the powers of Heaven and Hell, but his religious interest is in the relation-ship of his muscles to a most rebellious little white ball. And yet, in a way, golf is religion because it gives him at least a little understanding of certain traits of his personality. It doesn't answer "Who am 1?" but it is one attempt to find an answer. Some blue-domers are passive. A sunbather, half-asleep and thinking of little, is free for awhile from the stresses of life.

Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: For this is the law and the Prophets. Matthew 7:12.

There are many more varieties of blud-domers. Among them are those who pray. They may not know they are praying. They go off alone to communicate in silence with the universe.

WITHDRAWAL AND RETURN

The philosopher-historian, Arnold Toynbee, argued that the fates of individuals and nations are governed by several general principles. One of them is "Withdrawal and Return." When persons or societies retreat, either voluntarily or because of outside force, they can come back to their pur-poses with renewed vigor and wisdom. He cites many religious and political leaders who founded their careers during times of withdrawal.

A notable example of withdrawal is Jesus.
There was the ordeal of the Forty Days in the Wilderness where he overcame the temptations of the World, the Flesh and the Devil and saw his purpose clear. But there were other occasions when Jesus, most social of men, had to get away from the human race and spend time alone and outdoors. Jesus was a blue-domer.

MIRACLE OF THE ONION A "blue-domer" doesn't really have to go outdoors. Blue-doming is a way of looking alone at the beau-ty and mystery of the world we live in. Rev. Robert Farrar

The author, Richard Selz-er, writes: "Gaze uopon the skin as I have, through a microscope brightly, and tremble at the wisdom of God. For here is a magic tissue to suit all seasons." He goes on to describe skin and its many functions. Each paragraph increases awe of the miracle of the stuff we take for granted until we get hurt.

Episcopalians on verge of crucial fight

EDITOR'S NOTE — The writer, who describes himself as a longtime Episcopal layman and church watcher, hereby advises readers that what follows not an unbiased, objective report.

By RALPH HINMAN Jr. Staff Writer

Missing next month when some 25,000 Episcopalians gather in Minneapolis-St. Paul for their 65th General Convention will be the Solemn High Eucharist traditionally offered during the opening session. Presiding Bishop John Maury Allin is said to believe such a consolatory service would be divisive.

Southland church leaders say Bishop Allin is playing no favorites at this convention, a time when the Episcopal church undoubtedly will reach a critical turning point.

In his view an opening Communion using either the 1928 Book of Common Prayer or the final draft of a repeatedly revised and rewritten book would further widen and deepen major doctrinal divisions already painfully apparent within the 2.5 million-member denomination.

During a Sept. 11-23 convention in the Twin Cities, delegates are expected to give semi-final approval to the proposed revision. If indeed this occurs, the "bluebook" draft will be in general use for the coming three years, being brought back on the floor for almost certain final approval at the 1979 con-

Acceptance then would mean the final passing of a prayer book used throughout the English-speaking world for over 400 years. Although revised many times across the centuries — "From the Wrath of the Northmen, Good Lord Deliver Us" no longer is included within the litany — today it remains essentially un-changed in language and theology from King Henry VIII's day.

Supporters of the old book believe they can't win in '79; they say their only chance — admittedly a slim one — will come during this year's potenially tumultuous conven-tion. For in addition, a long-simmering debate within the church on whether to ordain women into the priesthood is to be debated again, with a final decision to be reached.

There are, needless to say, strong feelings of anger, bewilderment and disillusionment among church members — over both issues. On both sides. This commentary, how-ever, will be limited to pending liturgical changes.

Prayer book updating is an emotionally charged issue. The old book has been an integral part of many lives within this Communion, vitally im-pinging at confirmations, innumerable Sunday marning services, wed-dings, christenings of children and grandchildren, the final rites. Many a small shiny pocket edition has become worn and frayed passing through that cycle Opposition generally is based in two areas.

To many there is something cold and sterile in the "modern English" which may substituted for, but can never replace, the magnificent phrasings in a book considered one of the classics of English litera-

In the opinion of various distinguished U.S. critics and scholars, the essentially Elizabethan quality of the 1928 edition is superior in beauty and clarity to the language of the proposed liturgy.

Perhaps more signifi-cant to the future well-being of the church involves inevitable changes resulting from this secu-larizing of the language. For as a position paper released this week by the strongly anti-revisionist Society for the Preserva-tion of the Book of Com-

"The doctrinal compromises show themselves on almost every page of the Draft Book. The revisors have been careful to eliminate references to the soul wherever it was possible to do so; they have been equally careful to exclude from the revised prayers references to God's wrath

"Satan and Heil harely survive the revision; the evil one is reduced to the abstraction, evil. References to the Second Coming are diminished (as in the revision of the Commital at Burial), and the new translations of the Creeds compromise belief in the

in northeast Kansas, It ar-

Street, It was housed in a covered wagon with multicolored canvas and was drawn by two weary

The cast — Dr. Healthman and Chief Happy Bear — sat in the driver's seat. The doctor wore a cowboy hat and a fringed shirt. He had a full white

ally through a mega-phone: "The show will start at the edge of town at exactly 7 o'clock"

great excitement.

Just before seven the drumming and chanting began. The chief knew how to make a noise. We rushed to the scene. A small stage had been set up beside the wagon and there were two tall, flar-ing kerosene torches.

Almost everyone in town came. Not much

gling act and some sleight o' hand, then switched to the tom tom while Happy Bear did a wonderful war dance.

Then the doctor went into his spiel. First he charmed the people with compliments, then told of

The big book is a

smoothly written spiel, at once personal in tone and scientific-sounding. It is filled with impressive graphs and statistics and rather corny drawings.

Most of the book is de-voted to what TM can do.

You Can Improve

Writing columns for newspapers, I often receive long distance tele-phone calls from different parts of the country. One day recently I received three calls and, interestingly, each called to ask advice about a problem.

The first was a woman in Philadelphia. It was evident at once that she was a highly cultured indi-vidual. She used the English language with the easy flawlessness of one born to a long tradition of refinement. But this did not hide the fact that she was much upset.

She explained that her son, 20 years old, had fallen in love. And although he was still in his junior year at college and the girl was only a sophomore, they wanted to be married.

"Is she a nice girl?" I asked.

"Yes," was the reply.
"She is well mannered and a good student."
"Is she of good family?" (If I correctly judged, this would be a major consideration to this woman.) After some hesitation, she answered, "Well, formerly it was a good family, but it has deteriorated." "Then," I remarked a bit jovially, "by the girl marrying your son it would be improved would be improved again." This seemed to make an impression.

I pointed out how we parents are sometimes templed to overcontrol our children's lives. We must guide them, but not domi-nate them -- and most important, we must believe in them.

Finally the lady said, "I'm beginning to think a part of this problem is within me. Perhaps I'm too much of a perfecttionist. I may need help. with my own personality.

"Smart lady," replied, "so do we all." Next on the telephone was a housewife in tucky. She was quite a forthright character.
"My husband left me

two months ago saying he won't ever come back." The tone of her voice was pretty harsh and mean; and I thought to myself that perhaps you could hardly blame the man. 'Why would he go away like that?" she demanded. "How can I get him back?"

"Well, of course I don't know why your husband went away. But one thing we can do is to pray for To her obvious surprise I suggested that we pray together over the AMERICAN BAPTIST telephone, and then I asked, "Now, what do you say we pray for you?" She rather meekly assented. I prayed that anything in this woman's personality that might act as a barrier between her and her husband be corrected and to make her so attractive that he would want to come back to her.

After a pause she said uickly, 'Maybe you're quickly, "Maybe you're right. I have always had trouble with my disposition."

"You and me both," I said. And on that note we said goodbye.

Half an hour later I answered a call from a lady in Florida. "I have the nicest husband in this world," she told me, "but he just can't seem to make friends. We moved here from Tennessee. And we just have to make friends here to make a go of his business. Why is my husband so shy? He has a personality problem."

I promised to send him some things to read that might help him overcome his shyness and improve his personality. Also I expressed the thought that maybe she was pushing him too hard. "You could be right." she agreed. "Guess I'd better relax, but that is easier said than done, you know.

These three conversa tions set me meditating on the importance of having a well-organized personality, one that is an asset and not a liability. Does your personality get in your way? Does it cause you trouble with other people? Does it limit your success? Let's say this: No matter what your per-sonality defects may be, do not be discouraged — you can overcome them. Your personality can be changed. But it cannot be improved by superficial means alone, such as merely correcting mannerisms or other outward defects of behavior. Change must come from inside, where the qualities of personality originate. positive thinking. It can change people.

The Holocast

Regarding your article of August 21, 1876. Jews have never said that "they alone were the victims of the Holocaust." They have said that their role as vicinity and appropriate the vicinity and propriate the said that the said tints was unique; the solitude of the Jews, caught in clutches of the beast, has no precedent in history. It was total, Death guarded all the exits.
It was worse than the Middle Ages. Then, driven from Spain, the Jews were welcomed in Holland. Persecuted in one country. they were invited to anothgiven time to take rt again. But during the Hitler era the conspir-acy against them seemed universal. The English closed off the gates of Palestine, the Swiss ac-cepted only the rich—and later the children — while the poor and the adult. their right to life denied, were driven back into the darkness. It is as though every country — and not only Germany — had de-cided to see the Jew as a kind of subhuman species, an unnecessary being, not like others; his disappear-ance did not count, did not weigh on the conscience. He was a being to whom the concept of human brotherhood did not apply. a being whose death did not diminish us, a being with whom one did not identify. One could therefore do with him what one would, without violating the laws of the spirit; one could take away his freedom and life without betraving the ideal of man.

In Hungary, in the spring of 1944, Jews listo short-wave radio from London and Moscow: not a single broadcast warned them about the death transports, not one disclosed the existence nor even the name of Auschwitz. Jewish victims of the Holocaust suffered more, and more profoundly, from the indifference of the onlookers than from the brotality of the executioner. The cruelty of the enemy would have been incapable of breaking the prisoner; it was the silence of those he believed to be his friends — cruelty more cowardly, more subwhich broke his

churches from the formal Espicopal to the Salvation Army. Now I attend the church of God headquar tered in Anderson, Ind. It been my experience that it doesn't matter how religious you are or what church you attend. What does matter is what you believe about and what you do about Jesus Christ. To be 'born again born spiritually, I had to believe that Jesus Christ is the only begotten Son of God and that He died on the cross for me personally. In other words, I had to helieve John 3.16. I didn't have to understand it all I had to do was believe it in faith.

I had faith for other things. We are all born with faith. Without faith we could not live sanely. For example, I have faith that when I flip a switch in my house a light will come on. I have faith that when the signal says "Walk" it is safe to cross the street. I have faith that when I cast my ballot in November my vote will be counted. So I had faith that if I confessed my sin and ac-knowledged Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior, God would forgive my sin and I would become a child of

But before I could confess my sin I had to know that I had sinned. The Bible tells me that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." So since I had enough faith to believe in Jesus, I certainly had enough faith to believe that what the Bible says is true. So I Humbly confessed to God in prayer whatever sin I was conscious of and whatever sin I was not even aware of. He forgave me and accepted me. How do I know He did? I know it because the Bible says He did. The Holy Spirit directed me into a study of the Bible, and the more I study the Bible, the more I know, beyond any shadow of doubt, that I am saved. What does it mean to be saved? It means that my spirit will never die. I shall have everlasting life. But I don't have to wait for my body to die to enjoy some of the blessings of salvation. I am enjoying them now. They are peace and joy in my soul, a love for other people that is a tremendous help to me in my human relationships. It is a faith that I can do anything I want to do within God's will because "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." It's selfrespect that comes from the knowledge that I am a child of God — I no longer feel inferior to others. Opportunities and material blessings have come my way since I have become a child of God. The blessings of salvation are as endless as the infinity of God himself. All I can say to anyone who scoffs at the "born again" Christian is, "If you haven't tried it, don't knock it; but for you soul's sake, TRY IT!"

Mary E. Tramel

When the Religion Editor asked for letters of testimony regarding the "born again" experience I had in mind a long letter I would write of my own re born experience. But in-stead I will say to anyone earnestly searching for the rebirth of life read

John 3:1-7. Now some people think doing good works is enough for salvation. I believe good works will not you a reborn Christian. When you are reborn by the grace of God it changes you completely. Then you want to do good works because of the gratitude and love you feel for God. With someone as holy as Jesus living in your heart (after you invite Him there) you can't be anything but "reborn". Praise God there's no other life worth living except this new life.

LINDA BLAIR HAS MAKEUP ADJUSTED

Richard Lederer, making his debut as a co-producer, observed the proceedings and said that everything in Hollywood was a gamble but "the closest thing you have to insurance is a sequel."

Lederer, a vice presi-dent of advertising and publicity for Warner Bros. before he turned to producing, said that a superior screenplay for "Exorcist II" attracted people "who normally people wouldn't do a sequel" -Boorman, the co-producer, and Burton.

Burton, who wed Susan Hunt last Saturday, was not feeling well Tuesday, according to Boorman After filming the escalator sequence, which took the actor more than an hour, he left the set.

'Exorcist II' takes devil of a time

When Burton appeared, he had to do his down-theescalator scene at least times. After all the one came: "Action, Richard," and he pushed a door open and headed for the escalator with Miss Blair at his side.

Before reaching the moving stairs, however, he bumped into Paul Gus-kin, who had come up the steps doing a crossword

"I think I gave him a good shot in the chest, that last time." Guskin said. "The timing was off." Guskin, a professional actor for 17 years, said that the background actors all get $47.50 for the day, but that he got a little more because he had to bump the star.

Lamarries Moses, a younger background actor, had only to walk up the stairs. She has done eight television commercials and a pilot, and "being an extra," she explained, "is part of getting seen" by the right people, mainly directors. Having the right wardsche and the right wardrobe and getting here on time, she said, can help get you up-graded — getting lines, for

By RALPH HINMAN Jr. Staff Writer

A Southern California Gas Co. (SoCal) application to build a $5 million facility in Wilmington to stretch diminishing supplies of natural gas by mixing it with pro-pane bought from a Long Beach-based firm was filed this week with the state Public Utilities Commis-

The proposed plant — on the west side of Lakme Avenue between F and G streets — will produce the equivalent of 52 million cubic feet of gas daily, enough to supply between 160,000 customers in the Basin area when it becomes functional in 1978.

Foreign-produced propane will be supplied by Petrolane via a still-to-be-contructed 8-inch pipeline from that Long Beach firm's San Pedro marine terminal some three miles southwest of the new SoCal plant. The plant is to be located on a two-acre tract.

A letter of intent recently cali-

Provided by this propane-air fa-cility will be an interim, five-year fuel supply to help provide contin-ued service until larger, long-term supplies are developed during the early 1980s, officials said.

"This is just one modest new supply of fuel," explained SoCal spokesman E.L. "Gene" O'Rourke

during an interview Thursday. "It's part of an aggressive conservation campaign" to preserve dwindling

"Unless we get new supplies we could be forced to curtail service," he added.

If prompt regulatory approvals are obtained, the facility could be functional by 1978, it was said. Although a coastal permit is not needed since the two-acre plant is not needed. outside the present zone, approvals are needed from the Federal Energy Administration, Environmental Protection Agency and Southern California Air Pollution Control

that would disturb environmentalists. Safety issues have been heavily studied and there is nothing different in this" than in any natural environmental envi

ral gas plant.
O'Rourke, noting that such propane injection "adds only about two per cent to existing supplies" of natural gas, indicated the planned operation "is not intended to be a literacle to any other proposed an alternate to any other proposed gas supply project."

The injection process has been in winter use use here for many years, O'Rourke said. As gas sup-plies were heavily tapped for home and other heating purposes, pro-pane would be injected to stretch quantities.

Most SoCal gas supplies are piped in from West Texas and New Mexico and stored in six immense underground reservoirs. "We inject (fill) them in summer, withdraw it in winter;" noted O'Rourke.

For about 25 years SoCal has utilized depleted oil and gas domes under the Southland as storage center the imposted (Fig. Oil hearing

Long Beach, which operates its own municipal gas department, buys about 34 per cent of its supply from SoCal, with the remainder coming from local sources, O'-Rourke said. Once the privately owned utility provided 80-90 per cent to the local utility.

Only foreign propane, expected to be produced in surplus quantities in the Middle East, will be used." U.S. supplies normally are used by farmers and petrochemical manufacturers.

Construction costs of the Wil-mington plant that SoCal will build and operate are budgeted at $5 mil-lion, with the the annual cost of propane over the five-year period estimated at $60 million.

Peanuts eminent, thanks to 1 grower

By STEVE RATTNER N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — Jimmy Carter has accomplished a lot. The Georgia farmer has done what countless public relations experts and millions of dollars have been struggling to do for decades: He has rescued the peanut from obscurity.

A casual observer wouldn't guess that a sticky sandwich filler, a tasteless oil and a free bar snack could-add up to the nation's filth largest commodity, a major business that provides as much as $200 million a year in income to 64,000 farmers.

But peanuts are big business, and bolstered by the most famous peanut grower in history, the peanut

First, some peanut statistics:

In the 1974-75 crop year, which ended July 31, 3.7 billion pounds of peanuts were harvested, of which about two-thirds went into "edible uses." Roughly half of the edible crop became peanut butter (which half of the edible crop became peanut butter (which half of the edible crop became peanut butter (which half of the edible crop became peanut butter). by law must be 90 per cent peanuts or it must be labeled "imitation"), while 21 per cent was sold as salted peanuts, 16.5 per cent was used in candy and 10 per cent was roasted.

The remaining third of the crop, the government says, is crushed for oil and meal, or is exported or used for seed and feed or is lost on the farm. There are a Tot of esoteric uses for the peanut, too, but in are.a.lot of esoteric uses for the peanut, too, but in the aggregate, they don't count for much.

The peanut industry has been so concerned about its image that it retains a National Peanut Council envoy. He is Jack Springer, a self-described actor and self-styled believer in "peanut power." In addition to his responsibilities to peanuts, Springer is also beed of the National Process and Mr. Council le 1974. head of the National Broom and Mop Council. In 1974, he personally presented Jimmy Carter with a certifi-cate making bim a member of the "Super Goober Group."

The problem of making peanuts known as something other than kids' stuff has always been a principal concern of the peanut-promoting associations.

Where similar trade associations have largely concerned themselves with Washington lobbying, the peanut representatives have also turned to explaining how tasty, nutritious and economical peanuts can be. Part of their effort involves creative ideas for what to do with peanuts, such as concocting peanut butter initiashakes. The National Peanut Council has represented the suggestions including a peanut distance.

Attempts to flatter Carter by serving peanuts in the shell may turn out to be a waste of time. Those are nearly always Virginia peanuts, which are the largest, and, according to some peanut experts, the

What the Democratic presidential nominee grows in Georgia are "runner" peanuts, smaller, and nearly always used for peanut butter and other processed products. There is a third type, the small, dark-skinned Spanish nut, grown in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, as well as in Texas and Oklaho-

However. Carter can take solace in the fact that his home state of Georgia is far and away the biggest producer — 45 per cent of the 1975 crop came from Georgia. The next biggest producer, Alabama, accounted for only 14 per cent. Then came Texas (12 per cent) and North Carolina (10) per cent.

The theory behind the subsidy is that by insulating the price against the ups and downs of the marketplace, a stability of supply can be assured. Processors, therefore, must pay the government's price for their peanuts, except that in years past, the

"The government program, on the statute books since the 1930s, virtually mandates a price increase for peanuts every year" commented J.H. Vokhardt, president of Best Foods, CPC division. "Consumer prices are forced up."

To protect against low-priced peanut imports, both restrictions and high tariffs have been applied.

Peanut subsidies have long been under attack from nonagrarian legislators, but no one has been able to do much about them. Now, the White House hopes that all the peanut publicity caused by the nation's most famous peanut farmer will provide the push needed to bring the subsidy program into the modern age.

As every schoolchild was taught, Dr. George Washington Carver, the Tuskegee University scientist, was responsible for the early promotion of the peanut. Concerned that southern farmers needed a crop other than cotton to rejuvenate exhausted soil. Carver discovered more than 300 uses for peanuts and their byproducts.

Today peanuts are used in many products. The hulls make sound insulation, wallboard, the cork-like substance found in bottle caps and the like. Crude peanut oil is important for making soaps and detergents. Refined oil, in addition to being about the lightest cooking oil available (although costly), is used in grinding precision instruments, in many pharmaceutical products and as a massage for polio retients.

Peanuts today are a formidable growth industry, increasing at about 2½ times the rate of the Gross National Product. Last year, for example, sales of peanut butter rose by 10 per cent and during the meat shortage of 1973-74 — when consumers sought a low-cost source of protein, which is peanuts' most formidable attraction. They rose by 15 per cent formidable attraction — they rose by 15 per cent.

(On a cost benefit basis, the National Peanut Council maintains, peanuts are always number one or two. The only products nearly as nutritious are dried beans and they don't taste as good.)

Consumer spending, jobs brighter

beach office and furniture supplies and printing firm, as a wholly owned subsidiary.

Dean Eastman, founder of Eastman in 1948, said he will continue as president and chief operating officer and no changes in personal or operating procedures are contemplated. Glen Ticehorst will remain as vice president and general manager.

The company, at 2401 E. Willow St., has 200 employes and annual sales of $15 million and ranks as one of the larger firms in its industry. California's comeback from the 1974-1975 recession is gathering momentum and the economic recovery should carry over well into 1977. as one of the larger firms in its industry.

Buffums', with 13 department stores in Southern California and annual sales of $57 million, is a majority-owned subsidiary of David Jones, Limited, of Australia. Jones annual sales exceed $300 million from its 30 Australia.

This theme is contained in the mid-year economic forecast just released by the research and plan-ning division of United California Bank.

The UCB mid-year economic outlook notes that consumer spending has been strong, the business ing has been strong, the business sector is now providing more stimulus to the recovery, and new job opportunities are becoming more plentiful.

The only eye-raising problems which still merit some concern, the bank report says, is over the unemployment rate, inflation and the housing sector.

UCB's research and planning staff has forecast 250,000 new non-farm jobs will become available in the state this year. This compares with an actual 17,000-job loss last year because of the economic downturn.

Despite these new jobs - one third of which will be in the services and governmental sectors the state's unemployment rate con-tinued to puzzle economic observ-

From a high rate of 10.5 per cent recorded in September 1975, the state's unemployment rate declined to 9.4 per cent as of July 1976 but was still above the national rate (7.8 per cent). A slowdown in the growth of the labor force should help further reduce California's unemployment rate to 8.5 per cent by the end of the year, the bank report says.

Here are some of the major features of the mid-year forecast:

Inflation — The news in Califor-nia and the United States as a whole over the balance of 1976 will not be as pleasing as it was in the first half. An advance in prices of between 6 and 7 per cent is likely for the state. Problem areas in price hikes will be in transportation and the health/recreation sector.

Income - Personal income should move up by 11.6 per cent over 1975 levels to a total of $155 billion for the state. Median family outlon for the state, Median family income should reach $16,865, up some $1,550 over the 1975 figure. Retail sales — The year began like a race horse bolting out of the starting gate, then ran out of gas in May and early June. But heightened promotional activities on the ened promotional activities on the part of retailers may have breath-ed new life into this sector as the pace of soft goods sales has been quickening. Total sales for the year should be pleasing but not as daz-zling as results in the last quarter of 1975 and first quarter of 1976. Total retail sales should hit $71.8

hillion, an increase of 12 per cent above 1975 levels.

Auto sales — The Cinderella story for the year has been the rebound of the automobile industry and its climb to higher profit levels.

The levels are sales in Cali levels. Total new car sales in Cali-fornia are up by 17 per cent with domestic manufacturers recording a 33 per cent gain over 1975 and the imports recording a 6 per cent drop from previous year levels. Proposed price increases for the 1977 model cars and the possibility of an automobile strike are the only cau-tion flags raised for the industry over the balance of 1976.

Housing — New homebuilding in the state is ahead of the industry nationally, although the housing construction activity has seesawed with the rate dropping from a January high of 211,000 units to 164,000 units in May, then bouncing back to 206,000 units in June. The apartment sector has staged a good recovery and the housing resale market has been very robust.

The two trouble areas to watch are a possible upturn in mortgage interest rates and the property tax problem facing some of California's larger counties. The UCB forecast is for 170,000 new housing units to be authorized or built during the year, up 29 per cent over 1975's level but still well below the banner year of 1972 when 281,000 new housng units were authorized or constructed.

There are other problem areas on the horizon which the state's business and legislative leaders may have to face next year, the bank's research and planning division believes.

It points out that the state's national reputation as a place to locate a new plant or facility is not the most favorable, partly because state agencies are promulgating rules and regulations that are driving up the cost of doing business in California.

California.

Another concern, the bank report says, is that little progress has been made on the energy supply problem facing the state. Natural gas available to California from current sources of supply will continue to decline, and operational dates for new offshore supply sources continue to slip back. sources continue to slip back.

Guess who will pay increases in costs of new-car materials

By JOHN CUNNEFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK - All those price increases in basic materials that have been unnoticed by consumers are now being presented to them all packaged in the 1977-model automobiles, soon to be in deal-er's showrooms.

It is only when increases reach the retail level, as they almost always do, that consumers become very concerned. Up to that point the many increases in the components of retail items are

THE QUESTION now is whether the buying public is willing to let the sizable increases in retail car costs go relatively unno-ticed, as they did with the earlier increases in the component materials. Or

NEW YORK (AP) -The stock market drew litthe inspiration from some favorable government figures on the economic outlook Friday, recording only light and scattered gains in one of the quietest ressions of the year. sessions of the year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 3.49 to 963.93, trimming its loss for the week to 10.14

But declines held a slim edge on advances in the overall count of New York Exchange-listed issues.

BIG Board volume reached only 12.12 million shares, the lightest total for a full six-hour trading day since last Jan. 2.

On Aug. 9, 11.70 million shares changed hands with the exchange clsoing an hour early because of hurricane Belle. As the market opened.

the Commerce Department reported that its index of leading economic indicators climbed .5 per cent during July. It was the 17th cosecutive monthly advance for the index, which is designed to detect future economic trends. But traders seemed unwilling to show much enthusiasm in the wake of the 38.90-point drop in the Dow from the middle of last week through Thursday's close.

BROKERS also noted caution over a rising trend in the growth rate of the basic measures of the nation's money supply.

seems to think the increases, which in General Motors' case amount to nearly 6 per cent, will be accepted by a public eager to continue buying cars at least at the same pace as in 1976.

Customer demand for new cars has been growing, said GM Chairman Thomas Murphy.

GM, for example, has more than a 100-day supply of small cars in its lots, manufactured but left unsold because of buyer resistance. There has to be a message there. Weren't these cars expected to be the big sellers?

Could it be that people can't afford them, but if that is so, why are larger, more expensive cars sell-ing better than expected, so well in fact that some dealers cannot meet the demand?

AN EXPLANATION that may be growing in acceptance is that while the upper one-third of the population has indeed emerged from the recession, many lower-income families still are mired in troubles.

A quick illustration of the problem is proved by comparing the median family income of between $13,000 and $14,000 with the $4,000-$5,000 price tag on some of the popular models.

Pressed by rising costs of health care, food and shelter, many families — don't forget that half the families earn less than the median - may be unable to purchase cars, no matter the desire or even the need. Moreover, insurance costs have become almost prohibitive for some families, and the high prices of gasoline, parking, tolls, tires and general mainte-nance have made the car for some families a finan-cial noose.

The carmakers might be correct in assuming the public will absorb the in-creases complacently, but they are probably assuming too much.

By JAY SHARBUTT

When NBC airs "Amelia Earhart" next October, the three-hour TV movie about the most famous of America's women fliers will have a fairly famous woman flier of modern vintage in the cast. She's actress Susan

Oliver, who a few years ago became a co-winner of the annual Powder Puff Derby race from coast to coast for women private pilots. She also has piloted a small plane across the Atlantic solo.

But she is playing Neta Snook, aviation pioneer who taught Amelia Ear-hart to fly and became a close friend in the process.

It's ironic that Miss Oliver, a small, soft-spoken woman with blonde hair and a gentle, humor-ous manner, is playing a flight instructor. An in-structor's rating is about the only one she lacks as a pilot.

She says she has a glider-pilot's license, a commercial pilot's license, multi-engine and instrument ratings, and she is qualified to fly co-pilot in twin-engine Lear jets. She has 850 flight hours logged, 80 in jets.

Oddly enough, the New York-born actress half-jokingly says she "had to be led kicking and screaming" to her first private-plane ride, al-though she had flown as a passenger in airliners, of course.

The year of the Really Big Flight was 1964. A boyfriend who had recentby got his private-pilot's li-cense kept saying, "I'll take you up and show you the lights of Los Angeles at midnight," she recall-

After about four months of this, she said with a laugh, she made out her will and went with her beau to Santa Monica Air-port, where a single-en-gine Cessna 172 was wait-ing. They took off at night. "It was one of those extraordinary clear nights," she said. "He kept saying, 'Isn't it beau-tiful?' and I kept saying, 'Oh, my God!' But then the concept, the idea of the concept, the idea of flight, got to me. It was fascinating.

"So the next day I drove over to the airport, plunk-ed down my money, $650 or so — I still was too scared to take a demonstration ride — and eventually went on and got more ratings than my friend."

Miss Oliver, who in addition to acting and flying also is busy nowa-days trying to start other careers as a writer and director, was asked how it feels to be zipping along flying her own plane.

"Well, much of it is relative," she said. "In a Boeing 747, you don't feel as if you're zipping along. In a putt-putt, if you're high enough, it's a lovely kind of ambling across the countryside."

Government pressure and gradual if grudging acceptance of sexual equality in jobs have made it possible for women now to at least get a shot at the previously males only world of airline flying.
So we asked Susan

Oliver, a determined woman, an experienced pilot, which she'd choose if she had a second go-around in life — acting or airlines?

SUSAN OLIVER

"Interesting question," she said after a long pause. "I don't know. I was so tremendously shy as a child that I had a deep need to express my-self. I suppose in acting I do that.

No joy in Williamsport

O.J. rumors fueled as Rams meet Bills

Take it away, O.J.! O.J.? No, he won't be playing for either the Rams or Buffalo Bills in tonight's 7 o'clock National Foot-ball League exhibition game at the Coliseum, which has little else to recommend it.

Simpson is supposedly playing tennis with other celebrities in the Robert Kennedy benefit tourna-ment at Forest Hills this weekend, apparently prepared to launch a fulltime movie career. There seems to be little chance that the Rams will sweeten their offer for him, nor that Bills owner Ralph C. Wilson's pride will crack.

However, rumors of a trade were fueled again Friday when the Bills flew to Los Angeles with an entourage that included Ralph Halpern, the club's legal council, and Harvey Johnson, director of player personnel, neither of whom are customarily among the club's traveling party.

There also was a report that Wilson was expected to be in town by independent transportation, and a report from Forest Hills was that Simpson's name was not on the won't look that way tonight. Ron Jaworski will run the Rams' offense in the first half, his final bid to unseat Harris, the incumbent.

Jim Bertelsen, coming off from knee surgery, has not been impressive this summer but will get a long, hard look before the switch of McCutcheon to tailback becomes permanent.

With Simpson gone—officially, he 'did not report'—the Bills are yet to designate their next leading man. The well-worn Vic Washing-ton and rookics Darnell Powell and Roland Hooks have been contend-ing for his old position.

None of them wears No. 32, and none is likely to make fans forget

It's Don Sutton's long-dreamed-of goal and now he says that even if he attains it this year it won't be his greatest feat as a pitcher.

"Naturally, it would be satisfy-ing." Sutton said Friday night after winning his 16th, a 5-2 triumph over the New York Mets before 24,508 at Shea Stadium.

It was the Dodgers' 10th win in Il starts, keeping them eight games behind Cincinnati, which whipped Philadelphia, 4-1.
"But even if I do win 20 it won't be a better year for me than the 1972 season (19-9, 2.08 ERA). That was a textbook season. I don't think I'll ever be as good as I was that year, even if I didn't win 20."

Sutton has six, perhaps seven starts remaining and if he pitches in them like he did in his last four he might change his mind.

He's won four successive starts, the last three complete games, and he's won nine of his last 10 decisions. In that period his earned run average has been 2.15, a far cry from his over-all 3.72.
"I had a lot of bad luck early and, besides that, I pitched ugly, he said, assessing his early-season showing when he was under .500 and his ERA hovered near 5.00.

"But it seems like I've been getting as much good luck lately as Doug Rau and Tommy John have had bad," he said.

His good fortune Friday night came in the form of a two-run firstinning home run by Steve Garvey and a two-run double in the eighth by Steve Yeager that broke a 2-2 tie.

It also chased the Mets' starter, u also chased the Mets' starter, Jerry Koosman, who had a string of five consecutive victories. He had eight consecutive complete games and 10 wins in his last 11 decisions.

Yeager, since returning to the lineup four games ago after a dreadful slump, has gone 5-for-12 and has driven in five runs. He hadn't driven in five runs in the first two weeks of August.

"I credit the improvement to a new stance," he said. "I've opened up quite a bit and I've really cut down on my strikeouts.

"Tonight, though, that double was just a case of me hitting the ball where no one caught it. I didn't hit it that good."

After Garvey's homer gave the Dodgers a 2-0 lead in the first, Sutton blanked the Mets on two hits through six innings. But Jarry through six innings. But Jerry Grote's first homer in two months, with Ed Kranepool aboard with a home Yeager.

In the ninth inning, Bob Apodaca, the third New York pitcher, got Garvey for the first out, then hit Ron Cey with a high inside pitch.

Corpus Christi 'slams' door on Cards' Mack title hopes

FARMINGTON, N.M. (Special) The Long Beach Cardinals were stopped two runs short of their second consecutive Connie Mack World Series championship Friday night when Corpus Christi, Tex., posted a 5-3 victory on the strength of a first-inning grand slam.

The game was not even 10 minutes old when cleanup batter Eugene De Los Santos followed two walks and a single with a devastat-ing shot to leftfield, providing Cor-pus Christi with all the runs it required to dispose of Long Beach. The Texans added an insurance run in the second to conclude their scoring.

Twenty-four hours earlier the Cardinals had routed the same team, 17-2, ending its dominance as the tournament's only unbeaten squad. Friday, Long Beach was limited to single-run rallies in the second, sixth and seventh innings.

In the second, Dan Gausepohl by Dan Graf and scored on Mike

CINCINNATI (AP) - Joe Morgan knocked in two runs and stole three bases, leading the Cincinnati Reds over the Philadelphia Phillies 4-1 Friday night.

Fred Norman and Pedro Borbon teamed for a seven-hitter as the Reds snapped a four-game los-ing streak to the Phils, who have won seven of the 10 games played between the teams.

Norman (12-4) got four innings of one-hit relief from Borbon in raising his lifetime record at River-front Stadium to 33-9. Norman departed after five innings when his pitching arm tightened.

The veteran righthander wasn't afraid to utilize change-ups in those situations, however. He struck out seven and walked two. His catcher, Tim Murray, said he called for off-speed pitches 60 per cent of the time.

Manager Milt Stark says he will decide today whether to come back with Bentley tonight. He may use Jim Knott, one of three pitchers he has skillfully employed in this tournament.

"Emotionally we are ready and pulling together," said Stark, who had confidently predicted a week ago that his team could win the tournament despite its poor third-place finish in the WSC (26-14) behind the Long Beach Nitehawks and the Lakewood Barons.

Both of those highly touted teams have been eliminated.

The Barons went out early Friday morning when they fell 3-1 to Fresno's Ralph Salazar, who hurled a two-hitter.

Salazar was up to his old tricks again Friday night. He pitched five innings in relief of Herman Dunker-kin and struck out 12. Fresno won the game, 1-0, over Phoenix for its ANGEL ANGLES: Capsule comment from Yankee broad-caster Bill White: "I just don't see bow this team can blow its lead. Baltimore can't eatch us with only two starting pitchers."...The Yanks are up by 11½ games and are cruising, having won 11 of their past 15 ouings...No pressure, right?...Wrong, insists Yank manager Billy Marlin.

"There's pressure every game" he said...It must be a matter of intensity...Mickey Rivers says he still doesn't like New York but is slowly adjusting..."At least I've been accepted by the people and

Yanks explode in 15th to drub Angels

By DON MERRY Staff Writer

If nothing else Friday night, Frank Tanana proved himself to be a keen student of history He made sure it didn't repeat itself. Remember last Sunday in New York? Frank Tanana does and he kicks himself every time he thinks about it. On that less-than-memorable occasion, Tunana, one of the American League's earned run average pace-setters, went skipping into the ninth inning with an 8-0 lead. But he began celebrating his 15th victory a bit prematurely. Before the inning was over, eight Yanks had paraded across the plate and this highly unlikely happening de-prived Tanana of both a shutout and a triumph.

So on Friday night at Anaheim Stadium, Tanana made sure he kept the Yankees at bay — not for eight innings -- and not even for nine, or 10 or 11 of 12.

Tanana gave out with 13 innings of superlative pitching, recording 13 strikeouts and literally starving the Yankee hitters on a meager diet of seven singles, some of which did not leave the

The only problem was that Catfish Hunter was doing the same thing for New York, Never before had The Cat gone 13 rounds but he did Friday and the shame of it was that neither pitcher was involved in the final outcome. The issue was left for the bullpens to decide and the Yankees decided it in their favor in the 15th inning when they erupted for five runs and a 5-0 decision.

Hunter, who has defeated the Angels 25 times -more than any other pitcher of this or past eras — was Tanana's equal. He effectively spaced 11 hits in his 13 innings but was in several instances. Hunter got a break in the second when Bob Jones led off with a double but was cut down at third when he tried to advance on a tapper back to the mound.

Tragedy struck the Angel family Friday night when Russell Chalk, 56, father of shortstop Dave Chalk, was stricken by a heart attack at Anaheim Stadium and died a short time later at St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby

In all, the Angels stranded 14 runners in the first 14 innings.

Meanwhile, the only satisfaction Tanana realized from the long evening was that when he has a mind to, he can keep throwning blanks. At least at the Yankees.

The Rams' perennial Pro Bowl defensive tackle blindsided the press this week when a Los Angeles newspaper solicited his opinions on coverage given the team.

"It's frustrating having undereducated fans, or even educated fans, relying on uneducated writers," Olsen was quoted in the headline.

Oooh!
The article said "he emphasized his criticisms were not in-tended to apply to all writers. He was speaking generally."

But Olsen, a man of letters, should understand that generaliza-tion is the least valid form of criticism. Nobody escapes when the mud hits the fan.

FOR EXAMPLE, Olsen was critical of writers who conclude a lineman played a good game if he sacked the quarterback three times when the man in the control of when "he may, in fact, have had a horrible game."

It's the opinion of 32-year-old Jackie Sherrill that for WSU to build a winning tradition, the coaching staff must be realistic from the start-and that means recruiting.

"I will not recruit a kid who wants concrete under his feet or wants to go down on the block. Pullman is not for him," he said in his soft Southern drawl. "A young-ster will never come here with any false ideas."

"If the New Zealand government does not change its policy on its relations with South Africa in sport, no African country which is a member of the Commonwealth will take part in the Commonwealth Games at Edmonton, Canada, in 1978," Ganga said.

A swig of gusto

Since Fiery Noon, a heretofore obscure 6-year-old, started consuming a bottle of beer before each meal, he has won his last six starts for owner Ralph Sessa at Calder Race Course in

A HORSE OF A DIFFERENT TASTE

MIAMI (AP) - Firey Noon didn't win a race last year, spending most of his time hiding in a dark corner of his stall at Calder Race

But beer was added to the 6ear-old horse's diet this year, and he's been racing with gusto ever since—winning six successive starts.

"Beer is one of his favorite foods," trainer Ron Sarazin said before Firey Noon won the feature race Thursday.

The horse gets a bottle of beer before each meal, holding his head up so it can be poured into his mouth. Not being fussy, he'll also take it from a contake it from a can.
"It started one afternoon when some of the guys were sitting around outside his stall drinking beer," Sarazin said. "He kept stick-ing his head out of the door and hollering, so somebody decided he and he wanted more. Now he raises hell if he doesn't get his share of the brew.

Firey Noon soon registered his first 1976 victory, in a May claiming race. Sarazin said the horse's off-course attitude also showed a noticeable change. He no longer lingers in the back of stall, but the back out to mutch the sticks his head out to watch the action around the barn.

"He's proud now," said Sarazin. "He was tired of being a loser.

Winning restored his confidence."
"My main problem is to keep beer," Sarazin said. "I buy a case week for him and he gets a bottle before each meal. It seems to give him an appetite."

Sarazin said the beer-drinking is causing one other slight proble Firey Noon is gaining a little

"We might have to switch him to light beer to cut down on the calories," said Sarazin.

Nothing skimpy about quality of allowance race at Del Mar

DEL MAR — Any horse race that includes Avatar, George Navonod and Riot in Paris would figure to be the feature at any track in the country.

That's not the case at Del Mar today.

While the big money will go to the winner of the $40,000-added Eddie Read Handicap at nine furlongs on the turf, much of the attention will be directed towards the sixth race, which has lured one of the strongest fields ever assembled for an overnight event at the seaside track.

Among the horses tuning up for the $100,000 Del Mar Handicap on Labor Day will be:

• Avatar, the 1975 Santa Anita Derby and Belmont Stakes champlon;

. George Navonod, who won the Charles H. Strub

Stakes at Santa Anita this past winter;
Riot in Paris, who finished in the money at Hollywood Park in a string of stakes races, including the Lakeside, American, Sunset and Hollywood Gold Cup as well as winning the Bel Air.

Although George Navonod will be making his first start since Santa Anita, he has been working well at Del Mar. It will be Avatar's first race since finishing second to Pay Tribute in the Hollywood Gold Cup.

Lightning Mandate, a disappointing sixth in the Bing Crosby Handicap while making his first start since finishing third in the Santa Anita Handicap, will try again in the Eddie Read Cap today.

White Fir, Good Report and Branford Court, all winners of stakes recent to be Mary are expected to winners of stakes races at Del Mar, are expected to furnish the main competition.

Austin Mittler, Silver Saber, Specialite, Diode and Early Cotton round out the field. If all nine go postward, the winner will earn $26,350 from a gross purse of $44,350.

The fifth race, at one mile on the turf, has lured six fillies and mares who are pointing toward the $50,000-added Ramona Handicap Sept. 12.

Star Ball, an impressive winner in her only two starts in this country, will have Fernando Toro aboard. She has been sidelined since the early Hollywood Park season by a series of minor ailments.

Laffit Pincay had another triple Friday, giving him 58 winners for the meeting. The featured $12,000 San Diego Convention and Visitors Purse was won by Helen Kathleen.

Arnie's Army 'lifts' Graham into shot lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) --Australian David Graham ignored the moans and groans of Arnie's Army and pieced together a five-under-par 67 for a one-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $200, 000 American Golf Classic.

Graham, who has won titles on four continents, writes a column for a golf magazine and ranks as one of the game's better club designers, put together a 36-hole total of 136, eight-under-par for two trips around the 7,105-yard

NFL first loser in Delaware football gambling program

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The National Football League lost its attempt to stop the state of Delaware from starting a professional football lottery next week when a federal judge ruled against it Friday.

U.S. District Court Judge Walter Stapleton turned down the NFL's request for a temporary restraining order to block the state from beginning the nation's first state-run professional football betting program.

In his order, Stapleton said he did not agree with NFL attorneys that the league would suffer "irreparable harm" from the lottery.

Judge Stapleton's opinion, only 1½ pages long, gave no further reasons for his decision.

Lawyers for the NFL had argued during a court hearing Wednesday before Stapleton that the "forced association" with gambling would change the "public perception of the game from the scoreboard to the tote

But lawyers for Delaware said the game would merely be an extension of the office betting pools and cards played illegally by millions of persons for years.

Delaware expects to make about $2 million this year on the weekly game. Some of the other 13 states with lotteries were reportedly considering beginning the same type of lottery and were waiting to see what happenend in the Delaware case.

The lottery would have two parts.

One, "Touchdown," would resemble football cards in which a person would bet on three, four or five games and would have to pick both the winning teams and

The second game, "Football Bonus," would have two slates of seven games each. A bettor could wager on one or both scales.

In New York, an NFL spokesman said: "We're obviously disappointed, but we would hope during the

During the hearing, a number of legal points were raised, but much of the time was spent debating the effect of the lottery on the NFL.

Viking 2 gets 'nudge' for 2nd Mars landing

PASADENA (AP)-Mission controllers nudged Viking 2 slightly Friday lo bring its path directly over the field of sand dunes where the second Mars landing is to be tried

The orbiting Viking mother ship fired a 19-second rocket burst that slowed it by 27 mph. The ship is still mated to the lander that will be set free to descend to Mars Sept. 3.

That site, where rolling sand dunes cover rugged ground below, is some 4,000 miles to the east and north of where Viking 1

Mission Director Thomas Young said the Viking I lander, currently carrying out a search for life on the planet, will be put into a "reduced mis-sion load" next week.

That means the lander will operate automatically, at a lower level and without direct commands from Earth, while Viking 2 is making its landing and beginning experiments.

But the company said the health department "has advised that they do not suspect the product to be contaminated and that these few cases are probably an individual or aller-gic reaction."

Dr. Martin Finn, deputy director of Los Angeles County's preventive health services office, said Thursday the six persons who had reported illness after eating Tuna Twist did not require hospitalization. But he said the cases were severe enough to prompt him to recommend that the food product not be eaten.

He said the six reported such symptoms of nausea, stomach cramps, dizzi-ness, difficulty in breath-ing, rapid heart rate and choking. He said they fell ill within 20 minutes after eating the product.

Jonathan Rich, an attorney for Nabisco in East Hanover, acknowledged that the firm had gotten some letters saying the product made people ill. But he said that after test-ing the firm had found no problems with Tuna Twist.

Rich said Nabisco tested the product carefully after receiving the com-plaints, "and we found nothing toxic in it at all." He said the tuna fish or the mayonnaise used in preparing tuna salad might have been the cause. "It could be any ingredient ..." he said. "We can't find anything wrong with our product."

Dr. Shirley Fannin. director of the county's acute communicable disease center, said, "As a general rule, about 1 per cent of the people who get ill are concerned enough to call us. Most people don't associate the symploms with the product. She said most people who get symptoms of an illness call their own doctors.
